Autopsy photos of president JFK prove he was secretly set up by his own administration

REVEALED for the first time anywhere — the shocking autopsy photos of JFK that PROVE once and for all there was a conspiracy to murder the president that led all the way up to the White House. Ordered to be kept under lock and key until the year 2039, they are the proof the Kennedys and the government never wanted you to see. But now, the world's leading authority on the assassination, who was handed the photos by a dying Secret Service agent, reveals them in GLOBE. Robert Groden is the man who first showed the world the amazing Zapruder film. He's the expert who served as photographic consultant on the House Assassinations Committee. He's also the chief adviser on Oliver Stone's new blockbuster movie JFK. Read his world exclusive six-page report. Study the pictures. We guarantee the facts will shock you rigid.

JFK AUTOPSY PHOTOS WERE FAKED & HERE'S HOW & WHY FEDS DID IT

COLDHEARTED CONSPIRATORS CUT JFK'S THROAT

President John F. Kennedy lies in the autopsy theater at Bethesda Naval Hospital in Maryland just hours after his assassination. The wound in his neck shows the tracheotomy performed at Parkland Hospital in Dallas. It was widened by conspirators to make it look like an exit wound, says expert Groden. "If it was that big from the operation, you could have fitted a garden hose in the hole"

PRESIDENT'S LEAKING BRAINS

This genuine autopsy photo of the president shows where the top & rear of his head was blown away by a gunshot to his right temple. Blood and brains mat JFK's hair, but all of that is missing from the later photo the Feds faked

NOW at last the truth can be told. These shocking, never-before-seen autopsy photographs of John F. Kennedy were actually faked by the Feds just one week after his assassination.

They were part of a massive cover-up to hide the fact that more than one man shot the president, explains Robert Groden, the world's leading authority on the photographic evidence in the Kennedy assassination.

"The JFK autopsy photographs were faked," Groden declares. "The Feds needed to prove that he was shot in the back of the head by a lone gunman, but in fact, the president was shot from the front by a killer on the grassy knoll.

"Six doctors and a nurse who treated the president at Parkland Hospital swore that there was a gaping hole in the back of Kennedy's head. One X-ray technician fitted both his fists in it. But the autopsy photos don't show the wound. That's because it has been covered up by photographic trickery.

"By the time the conspirators got the body to Bethesda

Naval Hospital in Maryland, they knew they would have to make the huge hole in JFK's head disappear. They silently looked at the body while X-ray technician Jerrol Custer and autopsy photographer Floyd Riebe, who both later testified that they saw a gaping hole in the back of the president's head, got on with their work.

Sinister plan

"The conspirators knew they couldn't stop the photos being taken and already had a sinister plan. The minute the two men finished, they took all the photos and marched out. "Back at a secret photo lab, they took pictures of the back of someone else's head. It was first thought that they shot another cadaver, but now it's believed they just photographed one of their own heads.

"Then they superimposed the new picture over the president's head, matching it up with his hairline. They did what the best doctors in the country couldn't do. They put the president's head back together.

"Their forged photograph now only showed a tiny bullet hole in the center of Kennedy's head. X-rays of the president were also altered.

"The throat wound was made larger by the conspirators in order to make it look like an exit wound. They said that was from the tracheotomy, but with a hole that size you could have fitted a garden hose in it, never mind a slim medical tube.

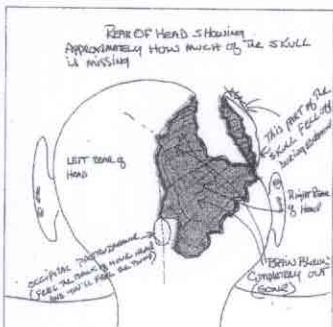

"They were pleased with their handiwork, but the question they have never been able to answer is why Kennedy's face was not disfigured. It certainly would have been if he'd been hit in the back of the head."

WHAT JFK'S HEAD REALLY LOOKED LIKE

● THIS photograph altered by computer shows the actual condition of the president's head as seen and described by two dozen eyewitnesses who saw the body on the day of the assassination.

Illustrated here, the massive hole in the rear of Kennedy's head is shown in red along with brain matter that continued to spill from the wound. When doctors first saw the condition of JFK in Dallas, they made every effort to save his life, but that was because their patient was the president of the United States. They knew that with the damage to his skull and the loss of brain matter, skull fragments and blood, there was really no hope. JFK was mortally wounded.

The wound on the right side of the skull was very large but not big enough to remove the brain without tearing the upper part.

● BETHESDA lab technician Paul O'Connor, who helped at the autopsy, drew this illustration depicting the exact condition of the wound to the president's head when he saw it the night JFK died.

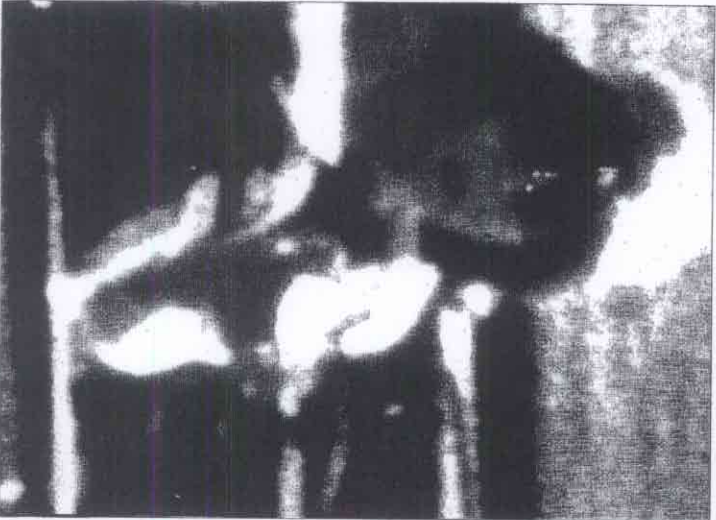

O'Connor says the government's photos are not what he saw. In his illustration he clearly shows that the top and the rear of Kennedy's head were missing — blown apart by a bullet. O'Connor, who calls the wound "huge," says: "Brain blown completely out."

PHONY PHOTO HIDES GAPING HOLE IN HEAD

his photo is a forgery, says Groden. The gaping head wound that blasted away most of the top and back of Kennedy's head has been touched up with photographic trickery in this official picture — obliterating the truth about the actual bullet fired from the grassy knoll which killed the president. A photo of the back of someone else's head has been superimposed over the back of JFK's head (see dotted line) to cover the evidence of the rockingly large hole that Dallas doctors said was there when they tried to save Kennedy's life. The picture supposedly shows an entry wound in the cowlick — but no large exit wound from the bullet that came from the front. One X-ray technician said he fitted both his fists into the hole in Kennedy's head to see how large it was

REVEALED AFTER 28 YRS: WIDOW'S SECRET

1 Anguished Jackie watches in absolute horror as the fatal bullet brutally hits JFK in the right temple, tearing pieces of his head off.

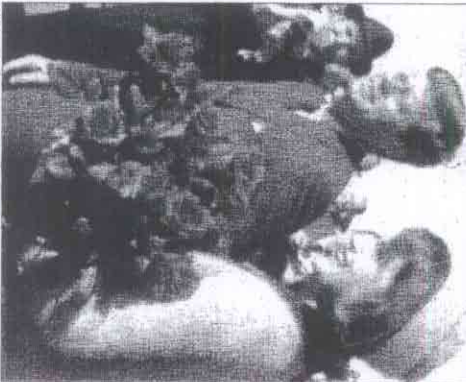

2 She grabs the wounded president and pulls him toward her in frantic desperation. Her secret testimony reveals: "I was trying to hold his skull on!"

3 Turning behind her, Jackie catches sight of a piece of her husband's head on the back of the limousine and bravely crawls out over the seat to get ahold of it.

TESTIMONY THEY HID FROM THE WORLD

4 Bracing herself with her left hand, she grabs for the skull fragment (inset right) and brains as special agent Clint Hill jumps on the car. She was still holding them when she got to the hospital

JACKIE KENNEDY'S shocking testimony to the Feds about her husband's brutal assassination — testimony that was deliberately suppressed by the government for an incredible 28 years — is now revealed for the first time in a blockbuster GLOBE investigation.

In secret hearings, Jackie told the hushed Warren Commission members that when she crawled over the rear seat of the presidential limo after a bullet blew the top and rear of JFK's head off, she wasn't trying to escape the carnage, as one famous photo suggests.

Instead, she was reaching out to grab the shattered remains of his skull, in the desperate hope that doctors would need it to save his life!

But Jackie's testimony about the fatal bullet that ripped into her husband's right temple never saw the light of day until now. In small letters, written on the original Warren Commission report, are the words: Reference to wounds deleted.

"Her testimony damaged the Federal government's single-assassin theory, so they buried it all these years," says Robert Groden, who uncovered the document for GLOBE.

"Jackie describes how JFK was shot from the front, not from the back.

Mortally wounded

"And how the back of his head was gone, which is contrary to what the government says.

"Their autopsy photos show the president's head intact.

"The Warren Commission wanted you to believe Kennedy was shot by a lone assassin firing from the Texas Book Depository — and that all the shots were fired from behind."

Describing the moments immediately after JFK was mortally wounded, Jackie says:

"I was trying to hold his hair on. But from the front there was nothing. I suppose there must have been.

"But from the back, I could see... you know... I was trying to hold his hair on — and his skull on."

Jackie then told the commission that she screamed: "I love you, Jack!" as the president slumped into her lap.

"There was a piece of JFK's brain on the back of the limo," says Groden. "Jackie saw it and she bravely crawled over the seat, braced herself with her legs and reached out with her right hand to collect the brain matter that was just sitting there on the car.

"Her own personal special agent, Clint Hill, jumped into the car at this point and covered both Jackie and the dying JFK. Jackie held the brain matter of her husband gently in her hands.

"She held it like that all the way to Parkland Hospital. Then she walked into the surgery room, where doctors were frantically trying to save the president's life.

"She nudged Dr. Marion Jenkins. He turned to look at her. She lifted her hands up in the air, toward his, and whispered: 'Here, this will help.'

"She was holding a large piece of her husband's brain and skull in her hands."

Blood-stained suit

Asked how many shots she heard, Jackie told the commission: "There must have been two, because the one that made me turn around was when Governor Connally started yelling.

"It used to confuse me, because at first I remembered there were three. I thought my husband didn't make any sound when he was shot, but then Governor Connally screamed like a stuck pig.

"Then I read the other day that the same shot hit them both. But I used to think: 'If only I'd been looking to the right, I would have seen the first shot hit him (JFK). Then I could have pulled him down, and the second shot would have gotten Governor Connally.'

"But I heard Governor Connally yelling and that made me turn around. And as I turned to the right, my husband was receiving a bullet."

Hours after the assassination, Jackie was asked if she wanted to change her blood-stained suit before attending the swearing-in of Lyndon Johnson as 37th president of the United States.

"No," she replied. "Let them see what they have done."

Adds Groden: "Even then, Jackie knew more than one man had killed the president.

"She realizes the autopsy photos were faked. I can't explain why she's kept quiet all these years, but I think the conspirators could have gotten to her and threatened her children's safety if she didn't keep quiet."

OUR SHOCKING EVIDENCE PROVES JFK MOVIE IS TRUE!

DIRECTOR Oliver Stone's blockbuster new movie has caused a storm of criticism across America, but assassination expert Robert Groden's shattering new evidence proves that the film's chilling plot is right on target.

Groden, who was chief advisor on the $40 million movie, and the man responsible for re-opening the Kennedy assassination investigation in 1977, used more than 1,000 photographs to stage an exact re-enactment of that fatal day in Dallas.

"I helped Oliver recreate the murder of the century," says Groden. "It was so real that people playing extras on the street burst into tears when they saw their beloved president shot."

"We walked every inch of Dealey Plaza discussing the minutest details. Every extra's clothes matched perfectly what people wore that day. Everyone stood in exactly the right position."

"It took two weeks to shoot the scene where Jackie crawls over the back of the presidential limo to retrieve a piece of her husband's brain. For two whole weeks actress Jodi Farber crawled in and out of that car over and over again, splattered with this blood-like stuff."

The blockbuster film Hol-

Assassination expert Robert Groden (circled) sets up a shot

lywood insiders are touting to clean up this year's Oscars reveals that:

- The president was killed by more than one gunman.
- That fateful shot was fired from the grassy knoll striking Kennedy in the right temple and blowing the back of his head off.

Fatal wound

- The assassination was part of a sinister conspiracy by disgruntled factions of the CIA, FBI, the Mafia and right-wing Cuban radicals.
- The Kennedy family, led by Ted and Jackie, are responsible for the continuing cover-up, 28 years later.

Groden says four assassins hid in their places and waited for JFK's motorcade to turn onto Elm Street and roll slowly toward a "kill zone," where they suddenly opened fire on him and squeezed off seven shots from high-caliber weapons. "The first shot missed," reveals Groden. "But the second hit the president in the throat. The fifth bullet caused the mortal head wound. That shot, fired from the grassy knoll, hit him in the right temple and blew the back of his head off."

"In the movie, you will see bullets fired from the grassy knoll. Oliver and I are convinced that the fatal wound came from the ground — not the sixth floor of the Texas Book Depository, where the Warren Commission claims that Lee Harvey Oswald fired the only shots into the president's body."

● 4 conspirators fired at Kennedy and Oliver Stone's chilling film shows how they pulled it off

Director Stone even re-shot the Zapruder film, a home movie by local businessman Abraham Zapruder that captured the images that stunned the world at the time of the assassination, says Groden.

"The man who plays Zapruder is actually filming the motorcade with an old 8-millimeter camera that matches the original."

Amazingly, Ted and Jackie Kennedy are to blame for hiding the proof of a conspiracy. All the original autopsy photographs have been locked away in the dark chambers of the government's archives for 75 years — with the Kennedys' approval.

"No one in the family has done anything about releasing the photographs for investigation," Groden charges.

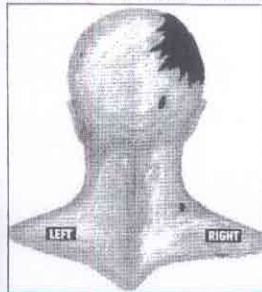

"Those pictures were given to the Kennedy family as a gift. They then gave it back to the government so it could be placed in files — and kept from the public — for 75 years." — KEN HARRELL

2 BULLET WOUNDS — NOW YOU SEE THEM — & NOW YOU DON'T

ACTUAL autopsy photographs of John F. Kennedy show two wounds in his back, both five or six inches below his right shoulder, just to the right of his spinal column.

But the government's official report shows an illustration — not a photograph — of one wound. And that wound is in the neck — not the back! "They did that to prove the 'magic bullet' theory of one bullet from a lone assassin," explains Robert Groden.

"The theory says one bullet hit JFK in the back of the neck, exited through his throat, hit Gov. Connally in the right armpit, exited his chest, made a right turn, hit Connally in his wrist, then made a final turn down into his thigh. That's a hell of a bullet!"

"The government hired an artist named Ida Dox to recreate a wound to the back of the president's neck. It didn't exist, but it DID fit their theory of a lone assassin."
