1/18/73 Trpubles with the phone need not be indicative of anything, but they also can be. I phoned Robert indsey of the New York Times after 2 today. He was out to lunch. He has written at length about the Garrett rock Trapnell case the past two editions. I told the metro desk I was calling about the FBI reports I have on Trapnell. He returned the call almost two hours later. I answered at the end of the first rings two times, to find nobody on the phone. The third time I left it ring through the second ring and he was there. I identified the reports I had to him, told him of others that should exist, and how to get them.
