Some Leaders in Congress Fear a Short-Lived Truce

By JAMES M. NAUGHTON Special to The New York Times

Congressional leaders, includ- broken. ing some prominent opponents of the Indochina war, gave Capitol Hill, as Senators and President Nixon a standing ova- Representatives learned-a few tion after a lengthy White at the White House, most by House briefing this morning on watching television-of the dethe negotiated truce in Viet- tails of the agreement, appeared

But several members of Congress expressed concern that more than frail hope that the the peace might prove short- war itself was over. lived. One of them, Senator Frank Church, Democrat of Idaho, said that he would in- meeting between Mr. Nixon and troduce legislation Friday to bar "re-entry" of American combat forces, including air Continued on Page 25, Column 7

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 - forces, should the truce be

The dominant reaction on to be one of gratitude at American disengagement, but no

According to several accounts of the private 2-hour-20-minute the Congressional leaders, the President also alluded to the

SOME IN CONGRESS FEAR BRIEF TRUCE

Continued From Page 1, Col. 7

obstacles to permanent peace. Hugh Scott, the Senate Re- terms of the settlement. publican leader, said that Mr. said, "by pursuing the course, Nixon for having obtained a we've got our P.O.W.'s coming who had disagreed with his con-liquidation of this long, costly duct of the war and of the ne- and bitter struggle." gotiations to understand that, while problems remained in parent in the reply of Mike carrying out the settlement, Mansfield, the Senate Demo-"it would be extremely helpful, cratic leader. To newsmen who while being honest, not to con-asked him if he thought the sult our fears but our belief agreement would last, Mr. that this is peace with honor." Mansfield said: "Oh, for the

The Senate Republican leader time being. also quoted Mr. Nixon as having said:

gave their lives. Thank God for Vietnam. those who suffered and for

The White House briefing was conducted by Henry A. Kissinger, the President's adviser for national security. Both Mr. he said. Kissinger and Mr. on Friday.

and of committees dealing with foreign relations, armed services and appropriations. Several of them said that Mr. Nixon had suggested that economic aid that the United States planned for North Vietnam would depend on a continued demonstration of Hanoi's willingness to abide by the

At the White House meeting this morning, Senator J. W. Ful-Nixon had spoken of not devi-bright, Democrat of Arkansas ating from the course he had and one of the most constant set for the negotiations. He critics of the President's Vietquoted the President as having nam policies, congratulated Mr.

settlement.

Mr. Fulbright, the chairman back, a peace, however fragile, of the Senate Foreign Rela-which we have hopes wil entions Committee, said later in a statement, however, that it was "inevitable that many said, the President urged those difficulties will arise out of the

Similar skepticism was ap-

He said that he "imagine sometime in the fu-"Thank God for those who ture there would be difficul-stood. Thank God for those who ties" between North and South Representative them all. We're damn proud Reid, Democrat of Westches-of them."

Senator Gale McGee, a Wyomanswered questions from the ing Democrat who has supportcongressmen and the President ed Mr. Nixon's policies on the directed Mr. Kissinger to war, warned of "exceedingly directed Mr. Kissinger to war, warned of "exceedingly brief the full membership of the Senate and House at the Capitol that the Korean war had been concluded by a truce rather The participants in the brief-ing this morning included bi-called the Vietnam settlement partisan leaders of Congress "an important beginning."