

MEMORANDUM

MEMORANDUM FOR THE DIRECTOR

Bob Bennett, son of Senator William Bennett, is currently in the Department of Justice. He is a member of the Relations Branch in Washington. He is a very good friend. We intend to see him in the near future.

One of Bob's new clients is Howard Hughes. He can explain the political implications of his new position here in Washington by a close friend. He has been the principal contact man in Washington since quite a short period of time. He represents Bennett tells me that he is very interested in the effectiveness of his work. He has heard that he has been put into the Vice President's office. His position is very important. Maybe you can think of some other office, maybe in the State Department, in DC. The situation is very delicate with Hughes. He has a great deal of power that can be used in many ways. Could I have your thoughts on this matter?
