

Deposition - JANE CAROLYN WESTER, March 20, 1964, 6 H 120 ff.

Miss Wester has been a registered nurse at the Parkland Hospital for about 9-1/2 years.

Miss Wester said that doctors were with the stretcher when the Governor was wheeled into the operating room. His clothes were in a paper sack on the bottom of the stretcher. The Governor was transferred from the stretcher to an operating table in the hallway outside the operating room. She describes things that were on the stretcher, how she rolled up the sheets, one inside the other (p.122), and turned it over to orderly R. J. Jimison. She said the sheet on which the Governor had been lying had only blood on it. She is not specifically asked about a bullet.

Her testimony has been "briefly" rehearsed, as had been Nurse Standridge's and apparently just about all the others, according to statements made by the questioner, Specter.

She also had been interviewed at unspecified times by the Secret Service.

Specter questioned both Miss Wester and Miss Standridge.

Questioning by Mr. Arlen Specter, Assistant Counsel, Warren Commission.
