

Dear Los,

Whitaker

Perhaps it is that we care enough. There are many who care to a point or care on occasion or about some matters but on governmental integrity (limiting consideration to this aspect) and the JFK assassination information total silence except for two copouts.

So, I hope you enjoyed your skiing, came back intact and with batteries charged and an still of a mind to do something.

I was disappointed but not surprised that there was no interest in what the lawsuit and the decisions in it mean but I had expected that with the passing of time and the nature of the new information there might be interest in the JFK stuff.

The Post made no mention of it but that great liberal Mark Lane represented Spotlight/ Marchetti in Howard Hunt's libel suit against them. He convinced that jury there was no malice and the factual inaccuracies made no difference. The entire story, as I recall it, was b.s.

Nothing from the appeals court either. I hope this means what I filed is being read. A little public attention might be quite significant. Authoritarians need closets and curtains. So, with virtually complete silence helping, they are rewriting law and the constitution as we have long understood them. The minority of traditionalist judges is carrying a heavy load apparently without any support or encouragement.

Any reshaping of the country requires these kinds of outrageous decisions by the courts. These are not conservatives conserving anything. They are radicals of the right extreme and that is where we are heading, I believe. And there is almost no resistance!

Lawyers? All they do is get more scared. Their in terror.

With chins up, thanks and best wishes,
