

TV's 'Tidy, Closed Fraternity' Baffled by Agnew Broadside

By Karl E. Meyer
Washington Post Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 14—There was bitterness and confusion today among the TV closed fraternity of privileged men stirred by the one who, according to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, is a network chief in charge.

[Redacted text block]

A group operation, NBC's...
how to cover the same falls...
in Helsinki, network can dic... tate to the 45 people on the...
news staff.

[Redacted text block]

...tion up to and through the broadcast itself.

"It's radically different than a newspaper because the process is continuous," he said. "Everything involves a group decision in which selected producers, reporters and anchors themselves take part."

"There is no such thing as NBC policy, no dogma, no formula. I did not an effort

[Redacted text block]