Dear Gary,

Thoughtfully John Judge sent me a cassette of the awards. I appreciate what you said, much of it as I could make out with my hearing ~~what~~ what it is, including the crack about insults.

On which the moving finger of history has yet to write the end. I have indeed written so ^{me} of whom I am quite fond father^{er}everely. I suggest that in the future, when you evaluate insults, you do get a bit deeper and find what inspired them. As a parent, if you spank your children that is not because you hate them.

When we last spoke and you said there are those who are seeking the autopsy notes, which I think is a great idea, I forgot to suggest something to you for them. If there is any attempt to pull the same malarky, that all the notes are on the autopsy face sheets, etc., check Post Mortem on the number of items in the protocol that are not on the face sheet or any known record. When he was still in high school Howard Hoffman did that for me and I used it in PM. Tell them to feel free to use it if they'd like.

I do not know that for your work you'll want the printout of what was butchered out of Case Open but the friend who has it, Bill Mills, of Highson, phoned me and I told him you might ask for it and if you do to let you have a copy.

When I was looking at that cassette an AP reporter phoned me I presume about a story they'll use tomorrow. I refused to talk to him about Livingstone, the only one about whom he asked anything, and with my mind of the cassette I also forgot to suggest a few things I should.

I asked him to send me a copy of the full story and he said he would. If used here at all it will be shortened. I doubt the Wash. Post will use it at all and I do not get the other Wash. Paper.

I report this in the event he spoke to you.

Again thanks a best to you all,

I'd though that was to be an anniversary piece.

A former reporter who has seen it tells me it is on

Livingstone. I gather not one he'll like. Which is one way of marking the anniversary!
