

Bipartisan Recognition

"It was altogether in keeping with the historic role of your organization in supporting programs which assure an adequate defense for the nation. I want you to know that your group's understanding, commitment to the national security and its active support are sources of great strength to me as the Commander-in-Chief. I am deeply appreciative of the important work which you have done."

President Richard Nixon
Security Council letter appended at left

"You will keep the American public abreast of Communist efforts to spread itself day-by-day over the whole earth. You will help our people understand what they are faced with in this most fateful of all wars. Your work will help keep the lights of freedom burning brightly."

General Dwight D. Eisenhower
on inaugural broadcast of American Security Council Radio Washington Report

"... we need and need desperately people dedicated to the principles of the American Security Council and the Missouri Council on National Security. The one I need is you. Many Americans had the foresight to see the need for the American Security Council back in 1945 to provide this nation with a vehicle through which the private sector of our society could use its talents and its resources to maintain the peace and freedom of our country."

Congressman Richard H. Inhofe (D. Mo.)
Chairman, House Internal Security Committee

Studies

The American Security Council conducts comprehensive studies on any Security Council item of interest on the basis of qualifications rather than political leanings. Major newspapers across the country have editorially endorsed each of the following studies:

- The Strategic Military Balance U.S.S.R. vs. U.S.A.
- The A.M.B. and the Changed Strategic Military Balance in the U.S.S.R. vs. U.S.A.
- Research Reports on Strategic Military Balance at request of the House Armed Services Committee:
  1. The Changing Strategic Military Balance: U.S.S.R. vs. U.S.A.
  2. The Changing Strategic Naval Balance: U.S.S.R. vs. U.S.A.
- The Role of Business in the Cold War.
- Guidelines for Cold War Victory.
- Ten Day Negotiations of the Nuclear War.
- A Threat to National Security: Communist China's Admission into the U.K. Command System of Cuba: A Serious Threat to National Security.

Washington Report Newsletters

The authoritative Washington Report Newsletters is published weekly. It is an original source publication and is frequently:

- used as required reading at such institutions as the National War College, and the Army and Navy War Colleges by newspapers and used as pads for editors
- reprinted in Congressional Record (one issue was inserted into the Record by nine different Members of Congress).

Library and Research Center

The American Security Council is organized on the concept that "FREEDOM NEEDS FACTS, NOT FRICTION." Thus the foundation of the Council's operation is the library and research center on national security.

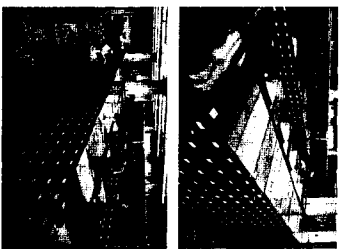

This library and research center is the fact base for the Council's studies, newsletter, radio programs and other educational activities.

The library and research center includes the largest private collection on revolutionary activities in America. Over $2,000,000 has been invested in the library. The size of the library is indicated by its central index which contains over 6,000,000 cards.

Index of over 6,000,000 cards is the key to the research center library.

The library includes the largest private collection on revolutionary activities in America.

Washington Report Radio Program

Now in its eighth year and serving an ever-widening audience, the Washington Report is America's only nationwide daily radio news program exclusively devoted to developments affecting the security of this nation. The Washington Report features: Rep. Richard H. Inhofe, Chairman of the U.S. House Internal Security Committee, as Legislative Editor, and Congressman Philip Crane as Contributing Editor. The program and features interviews with other experts and military, government and diplomatic leaders.

Broadcast five days a week on a nationwide network, it provides in-depth analysis in a factual, fair and easy-to-understand style. The Washington Report program is broadcast by a team of experts and a professional news staff.

Radio Free Americas

The American Security Council is concerned with the freedom of all the Americas.

Radio Free Americas is a daily Spanish language program service now broadcast over 38 stations throughout the Americas.

Radio Free Americas scripts are carried as daily newspaper columns in eleven major newspapers in the United States, Latin America and Spain.

Castro's propaganda machine regularly attacks this program and its distinguished editor, Dr. Hernilio Portel-Vila. Dr. Portel is an internationally renowned Cuban historian, radio-television commentator and former diplomat.

All Council publications and radio programs are produced by the American Security Council Press.

Operation Alert

Operation Alert is a continuing educational project administered by the American Security Council in cooperation with other groups. Its purpose is to alert the general public to the seriousness of National Security problems.

- 1972 operation alert targets include:
  - distribution of 10,000,000 copies of the summary of the President's Blue Ribbon Defense Panel Supplemental State-States had lost its strategic superiority.
  - getting 1,000,000 signatures in support of Blue Ribbon re-commendation that the U.S. "regain and retain clear strategic superiority" to insure peace.
  - preparing National Security issues index on Congressional voting records as compared to results of major poll of America's opinion leaders.
