Brian Ampolsk

Moo,

When I returned from this last trip, I sent Paul Hoch a copy of the memo I gave you on Brian Ampolsk. He has sent both of us, in the material that should have reached you today under postmark of 12.26/68, copies of CD 75: 222-4.

This tells us a little more about Ampolsk. Less than the Feebies should have reported, but a little more than we knew. If you will read the first page of this report, you will see that Ampolsk met Oswald at a lecture. Now this also is something new. But apparently the Feebies had little lecture interest, for we do not know by whom, where, who else was there, etc. Rather odd with the interest they are supposed to have had in Oswald, is it not?

I again refer you to the suggestions I made about Ampolsk.

I suggest that when you read CD75:222-4 you have a girl make a few copies I can work with when I am there and, unless you want to before then, I look Mitchell up. He has the kind of political background that make not induce comfort in the presence of public authority.

He should be able to come up with a few more names, perhaps, and a little more information. I do not doubt he told the FBI more than they report.

If I did not tell you or give you a memo, I spoke to Leonard Reissman, who is back in New Orleans. He is, he says, content to let the record stay where it is. He was out of New Orleans at the time of O's arrest, but I am not certain of the time he left. I presume it was after the close of the school year, which does not preclude his having had some knowledge of Oswald.

Harold
