Dear Jim,

After you left I tried to think of someone to whom I'd sent copies of those Sid Epstein records on the chance that copies might be with a copy of my letter. Finally I thought of a former reporter to whom I'd figured out years ago that the FBI leaked and I'd sent him just a couple of pages, of which I kept copies in the event he reacted, so I'd know what he would be talking about. I enclose them.

These may be the first pages of such records in that particular tickler. These pages are not from central records "record" copies. I'm certain of that from my knowledge of what they add. These are ~~me~~ from a copy made before indexing, from a tickler. The encircled number should help Lesar locate this series of records.

Notes by Hoover, DeLoach and Tolson are on page 2. Tolson, ar row with a dot to the left of the letter "D" indicates that he read it. The D and the few words are DeLoach, and the lining and "Let me see it" are Hoover, who usually initialed as he did here. If Goble interests you I can tell you a bit about him but he isn't relevant in this matter.

There is little point in my mailing this tomorrow because all our weekend mail goes to Baltimore, which is araditionally a postal disaster. I'll mail it Monday and perhaps by then I'll have located the other pages or will be better able to sit in front of the basement DeLoach files because the xref says these pages are there. I'll also try to check the file I call "control" downstairs.

At some point I think you should consider the Nosenko angle, which I mentioned only briefly. At first he was treated like a prince. Then the CIA made him available to the FBI and it gave the CIA copies of its interview reports. Nosenko told the FBI that the KGB suspected Oswald was a "sleeper" or an agent in place. Immediately Nosenko was abused beyond belief and sequestered. The FBI, from which I've gotten more records inthh recent past, wanted further access to Nosenko and didn't get it. Not for at least three years if ever. It was like pushing buttons. I have those FBI reports in my office.

I'll see of I can find the Elie Abel book. ^bPrölem is I can't stand still. Maybe Lil will get a chance. If we locate it I'll xerox what ^btold you about. While I was typing this she searched and didn't find it. Probably loaned out and not returned.

I think I sent a set of copies to Dr. David Wrone, history dept., Univ. Wisc., Stevens Point, home ~~1512~~ 1518 Blackberry Lane. If Lesar is too busy, ask Wrone.

Sincerely,
