

Who Killed JEK?

Who Killed John F. Kennedy?

That question, asked repeatedly by critics of the Warren Commission's finding that a lone assassin was responsible for the Dallas murder, was raised anew at a weekend conference in Boston held by a group of young people calling themselves the Assassination Information Bureau.

The group, spurred by the disclosures of the Watergate conspiracy and the reports of CIA's domestic spying, sought to start a national current for the reopening of the official investigation.
