

Testimony of William Robert Greer, Special Agent, U.S. Secret Service, March 9, 1964, 2H131:

Those two agents were in during the autopsy; those two agents were in the autopsy room, with Mr. Keller and I, all night. Mr. Sibert and O'Neill were both in the autopsy room with us during that time, and the only time any of us, either Mr. Kellerman or I, we never left the room, either Mr. Kellerman or I, we never left the room, one or the other. We went and got some coffee and came right back, something like that, and the FBI did the same thing. One of them left; the other stayed.

And the context of this testimony is Greer' denial of the accuracy of the report of these two FBI agents, quoted from the S-2555 report of S.S. Robert P. Gemberling of December 10, 1963, in which they said that in an interview on November 22, 1963, Greer had told them it was he who had used the radio. Specter was the questioner and Greer insisted he could not have said it because it was not true and because Kellerman had used the radio.
