Dear Paul:

Earlier this morning I sent you the first half of my own testimony which I received yesterday from New Orleans. When the rest of it arrives will forward it. Since you will have Xerox copies as before it will not be necessary to insure the item on return.

Hope you can get it back relatively soon because my lawyers in Topeka have not studied this.

Sincerely,

John Nichols

Harold; Please do not worry too much about the CE number of the document I sent because, I believe, # Sylvia mentions it in her book which is now with my lawyers in Topeka. In fact, it will not be necessary for me to identify it because the archivist sent it unsold cited with a covering letter. Presume you have received thermofax copies of the above mentioned testimony.

Re note on your 25th: I've already asked the Archives for that information for various reasons, one of which is that you sent me what seems like a different copy. I have lost it, possibly in Bud's office. When you can, if you'll send me the entire thing, I'll compare it with what I have. I have learned the importance of different copies. It is greater than even you realize, I think, and much more significant. As I learn anything, I'll let you know.

I'd planned to read you testimony last night and couldn't. I'll not now go it, but before reading a word of yours, when I was interrupted and had to lay it aside, I learned something important to me that I didn't know because of the kind of people some of those we deal with are.

Thanks very much for stapling your testimony. If it is not asking too much, there is another case and your stapler has the capacity (mine doesn't), I would appreciate it if you could include any thing protection, like a second hand file folder, for I expect to be carrying this as I get the expected lectures next season. Every fraction of an inch is then important. I'm taking the Mazier and Fink to a printer to have this done, but that takes time or costs money.

Hastily,

James
