Bremer-Alleged KKK Threat Against

Despite what was carried on the wires and air, that the alleged KKK threat was phoned to a small, local FM station, it went first to the Baltimore Hearst paper, the Kews-American, and to its (major) radio station. This station aired the threat every 20 minutes of so. Soon the police were flooded with calls. They had to ask the station to stop rebroadcasting the item.

I believe this paper owns a large radio station, best-known and most poerful in the state, WBAL. It has FM and TV outlets. It is WBC-affiliated.

It is more likely that pro-Wallace people would like the Wews-American better than the Sun, either edition, a.m. or p.m.
