7th 'Bug' Case Revealed By Justice Department

"bugging" by Federal agents
yesterday, this time in a case of Treasury Department cooperation with Miami detectives
to catch some gamblers.

The monitoring provided

of Miami and six co-defendants the Solicitor General's earlier conviction, was overheard tion in cases like Rainwater's.

The Justice Department con-talking to another defendant fessed to another instance of by Federal agents who had to catch some gamolers.

It was the seventh voluntary disclosure of electronic eavesdropping to the Supreme Court and lower Federal courts since the Department started canvassing its files last fall for tainted prosecutions.

Solicitor Ceneral Thursond the monitoring provided leads that led to a search of Rainwater's place of business. The search produced evidence turned over to Florida authorities, Marshall said. He added, "There is no reason to believe that State authorities knew of Solicitor Ceneral Thursond the possible taint"

Solicitor General Thurgood the possible taint."

Marshall told the Supreme The Court had asked MarCourt that Jack T. Rainwater shall for his views because of were the latest bugging vic brief in another case involvims. They were convicted of State lottery charges, partly prosecutors of information obout the basis of records Raintained through compliance water kept in order to pay his laws. Marshall asked the Marshall disclosed that Raintained to uphold the Federal water, who has petitioned for tax laws even if they afforded Supreme Court review of his immunity from State prosecu-