Dear Buddy Cousins,

While I am not aware of the publication date, I believe that Case Open will be out in about two months. It will be much shorter than I wrote.

Selections from Whitewash, from the same publishers, is out now. It consists of selections from the four Whitewash books and Post Mortem.

That the name Gerard McNally means nothing to me does not mean that he did not write me. I cannot remember all who have. From what you say it is possible that he is one who wanted more of the nut stuff so many live on from me and I would have nothing to do with it. Or perhaps debunked some of his nuttiness.

I do not have a computer and if you can send me that and anything else like it on the electronic mail nets I'll appreciate it.

I'm curious to know who does the badmouthing and for whom.

My files will go to Hood College when I am not able to use them. Or have someone go to the basement and search them for me.

Thanks for your good wishes.

Best to you,

Dear Mr. Weisberg,

I've been told that you will have A NEW BOOK COMING OUT, THAT DISSPELLS SOME OF THE MYTHS, PRESENTED IN "CASE CLOSED." I can only hope this is true. I have enjoyed all of your other books, and ~~many~~<sup>count</sup> on them.

I hope that both you and your wife are doing well. We've really had some winter - so far. I hope the worst is over.

Obviously, you don't have to answer, but have you ever come in contact with a Gerard McNally? He lives in Abingdon, MD. I am asking this, because he had some unkind things to say about you on Prodigy Service. From the tone, I could only assume he had made a request or in his case a DEMAND, and you refused. Regardless, he had no right to say what he did, on a public board, and I took issue with him.

Have you begun turning your files over to the college near you? I'm asking, in order to know where I could use them, without disturbing you.

Wishing you and your wife the best,

Buddy Cousins
