RETIRING CIA DIRECTOR LIMITS TOPICS

Bush Asked Breakfast Question: Rolls With Punch

BY MICHAEL LEVETT Times Staff Writer

sion, reliring Central Intelligence Agency Di-rector George Bush found the first question put to him at a press conference Tuesday one he toreign policy observations as topics for discuscould almost answer: Ruling out politics, sensitive information and

"It was a very good breakfast," was the "What did you have for breakfast?" was the laughing reply.

Although he would not comment on a report that the Howard Hughes-built Glomar Explorer had salvaged all of a sunken Soviet submarine off Hawaii in 1974 Bush did find he could answer most questions.

In Los Angeles for a speech to the World Affairs Council, Bush said he had met with President-elect Carter four times and that Carter

"has a good grasp of foreign affairs." Bush said that they share a concern about the potential increase in oil prices by the oil-pro-

Asked what advice he would give to whomever Carter picks to succeed him, Bush who has resigned effective the day Carter takes ducing nations. office in January, said:

confidence" and have that confidence and sup-port reflected when going to deal with Congress and other governmental bodies. "Keep direct access to the President, keep his trip to argue for a strong and capable intelligence operation, to discuss the quality of the people and work done at the CIA and "to dispel certain myths that exist. His stop in Los Angeles, Bush said, is part of a

—He denied the CIA withheld any information about the assassination of President John F Kennedy from the Warren Commission.

ing with alleged activities of foreign agents in this country, noting "we are not in the domestic histories". business. -He explained the FBI is in charge of dealing efficiently and effectively. The charges that the CIA was a rogue elephant have been discre--He said the CIA is "under control, operat