More than 20 federal agencies engage in electronic surveillance either here abroad, court records indicate.

According to affidavits prompted by a recently concluded military court martial in West Germany, the agencies range from the Defense Mapping Agency and the administrative services section of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to several divisions within the Internal Revenue Service.

The affidavits show that each of these agencies engages or has engaged in wiretapping," declared John H. F. Shattuck, national staff counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union. "Whether that wiretapping was with or without a warrant, is not entirely clear.

On their face, the affidavits left open the possibility that some of the surveillance was the work of informers secretly outfitted with tape recorders, but Shattuck said he doubted it. He said the affidavits were produced under provisions of
