

Organizations which received money directly or indirectly included the African American Institute, American Council for International Commission of Jurists, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, American Friends of the Middle East, American Newspaper Guild, American Society of African Culture, Asia Foundation, Association of Emergent Students in North America, Committee for Self-Determination, Committee of Correspondence, Committee on International Relations, Fund for International Social and Economic Education, Independent Research Service, Institute of International Labor Research, International Development Foundation, International Marketing Institute, National Council of Churches, National Education Association, Padarowski Foundation, Pan American Foundation (University of Miami), Frederick A. Praeger, Publishers, Radio Free Europe, Synod of Bishops of the Russian Church Outside Russia, United States Youth Council.

Foreign beneficiaries included African Forum, Africa Report, Bullfinch, Vozro, Center of Studies and Documentation (Mexico), Congress for Cultural Freedom in Paris (which supported the publications Elmer, Lebanon, Review, Auzias, Deuxes, France; as well as Encounter, Britain), Fronte de l'Education de Cameroun de Fano, Foreign News Service, Inc., Institute of Political Education (Costa Rica), Intermedia Federation of Newspapers' Organizations, International Federation of Free Journalists, International Journalists, International Student Conference, Public Services International, World Assembly of Youth, World Confederation of Organizations of the Teaching Profession.

Contributors for CIA money included the Andrew Hamilton Fund, Beacon Fund, Benjamin Rosenthal Foundation, Borden Trust, Broad-High Foundation, Cedarwood Foundation, Chasensko Foundation, David, Joseph and Whitfield Fund, David Hess, Dodge Foundation, Edsel Fund, Florence Foundation, Galters Fund, Heights Fund, Independence Foundation, J. Frederick Brown Foundation, J. M. Kaplan Foundation, Jones-O'Donnell, Kentfield Fund, Litauer Foundation, Marshall Foundation, McGregor Fund, Michigan Fund, Morris Fund, Norman Fund, Peoples Charitable Trust, Price Fund, Robert E. Smith Fund, San Miguel Fund, Sidney and Esther Habb Charitable Foundation, Tower Fund, Vernon Fund, Warden Trust, Willford-Telford Fund.