Spies in Pakistan

RAWALPINDI—Members of Pakistan's ruling Moslem League Party charged that the CIA was trying to promote a secessionist movement in East Pakistan. Speaking on a bill to stiffen the penalties for espionage, Nisar Ali Lishar, who represents the East Pakistan city of Dacca, claimed that the CIA was working against the country's interests. The East Pakistan opposition Awami League Party is currently under heavy government pressure for advocating autonomy for Pakistan's two provinces, which are 1000 miles apart on either side of the Indian subcontinent.

Hungarian Trial

VIENNA — A Hungarian military court sentenced three Hungarians to long prison terms for allegedly spying for the CIA, and violating currency regulations, according to reports from Budapest. They were Lehel Egedy, 27, who was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment with the confiscation of all his property; Elmer Egedy, 74, his father, 10 years imprisonment and confiscation of all property; Laszlo Asboth, 14 years imprisonment. All pleaded guilty to the spy charges, but innocent to the currency regulations charges.
