Assured on B26 Papers, Job Seeker Sc

By ORR KELLY Star Staff Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y.-A pilot who wasn't hired to fly B26 bombers was assured as early as Feburary 1965 that all of the paper work on the planes would be in order.

Testifying as a defense witness for two men charged with in a port for the paper to be conspiring to export seven of the bombers illegally, Edwin Frank Keyes of Merritt Island, Fla., said that was the one thing he was most concerned about.

On a crosscountry trip in the year-old alleged mastermind in easy the plane smuggling deal, in figured he could make $1,000-don't get through customs . . . If straightened out—not while I was on a flat payment."

Figures Out Pay

Board suggested, Keyes said, that he be paid $3,000 for each last week of February, he said, flight, from which he would he met Gregory Board, the 45- have to pay all expenses. On an have to pay all expenses. On an easy flight, Keyes said, he

"I asked Board about customs," Keyes said. "I knew that to Portugal has testified that he unless paper work is clean, you said he made the seven flights between May and August of last there was any one thing I stressed, it was that the paper work would have to be perfect. I would not sit three or four days Indictments have been dismissed against two others and Board has been out of the country since before his indictment.

Hawke, who is expected to testify later this week, has said that he believed the whole operation was being run by the Central Intelligence Agency. A man he believed to be a CIA agent, he says, gave him two produced for the trial to contin-code words—"Monarch" and ue. "Sparrow"-to use in case he got in trouble.

But another defense witness indicated yesterday that "Monarch" may not have been the mysterious code word Hawke considers it.

"Monarch" Discounted

Nicholas A. Kleiner, a supervisor for the Federal Aviation Agecy's New York Air Traffic Control Center, produced rec-ords from last year showing that Hawke had failed to check in by radio on trans-Atlantic flights.

On one of them, he said, the plane was described as a "Monarch B26.'

In testimony last week, a under government witness explained said. that the B26 was described as an "Invader" by Douglas Aircraft, the manufacturer. But when the planes are converted for civilian use, he said, they are designated "Monarch."

While the use of the word "Monarch" on the official FAA

Tucson, Ariz., and talked to him but clear only $500 if there were report is viewed by the defense about a job flying the planes. any difficulties. watching over Hawke, to the prosecution it appears to show that there was an attempt to represent the bombers as civilian aircraft.

Ask Dismissals

When the prosecution's case ended earlier in the day, Edwin Marger, attorney for Hawke, and Edward Brodsky, De Montmarin's attorney, argued that the indictments against their clients should be dismissed.

U.S. Atty. John T. Curtin contended that sufficient evi-dence of a crime had been U.S. District Judge John O. Henderson reserved judgment on the motions, which he de-scribed as "strong," and or-dered that the defense to go on in the meantime.

One of the first defense witnesses was Joseph E. Sullivan, a special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who described how Hawke came to his office in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., one day in the fall of 1965 and complained that he was being followed.

Moments later, a man who identified himself as a U.S. customs agent entered the office and admitted he had Hawke under surveillance, Sullivan

"Hawke and the customs agent exchanged some heated said something like, 'why are words,' Sullivan said, "with you following me when we're Hawke demanding to know why both working for the same he was under surveillance. He people?"