Dear Nick,

Herewith Frame-Up, as you asked. If you can accept this letter as a bill for $10 plus whatever the postage is, I'd appreciate it because as the country's smallest publisher my total staff is an overworked wife.

I don't think I mentioned it to you or Martin but as soon as I knew whether I can sell the ancillary rights another book, having nothing to do with Ray, will appear. I await the printer's delivery.

I am probably the writer who has made more use of the Freedom of Information law than any other if not all combined. This work is the yield of one such suit. Nothing like it on the specks, in Allen Dulles' own words. Still stamped TOP SECRET.

Lesar handled that suit for me. He is my associate in the book. In fact, he borrowed the money to pay the printer and we had to abandon the book for our Ray case work.

Had you had the time when you were using the Foreman deposition I could have shown you my only copy. I expect to hear from the printer momentarily on when he will deliver. But we'll have to wait until I have exhausted what efforts I can make on the ancillary rights. Lesar, however, has some copies. The printer is in Washington. The price is $6.25 including postage. I also enclose a list of the other books. If you will accept damaged copies they'll be free. If you want them.

The little party last week was important to me because I was pretty uptight about what I can't talk about. And I was glad to get to know you and Martin just a little bit better. I am familiar with some of your (pl.) work. So, thanks for it.

Until appeal we will not be able to get copies of the Ray transcripts. If you have copies of your stories, they could be helpful if you can spare them or make copies.

Legally, Ray is a pauper. But until appeal he is not entitled to a transcript.

And we, unfunded, can't afford to buy it.

I have a special interest in Foreman. The Wx Post uses little of your copy, so if and when that story appears, I have this special interest if you have a spare copy.

Best,
