Dear Senator:

Enclosed is another letter from "our" correspondent in Hominy, Okla. I wanted to give you this personally yesterday (Thursday), but you were tied up with that excise tax bill, and couldn't come off the floor, so I'm taking the liberty of transmitting it by mail.

The point she raises in the red-lined third paragraph is very interesting. Wonder where she gets these ideas; whether they are original or they come from stuff she has been reading, particularly in foreign publications. And if the latter is the case, how does a woman in Hominy, Okla., get to read material of that kind?

With warmest regards,

Robert S. Allen
