Dear Ed,

Thanks for the records relating to "the fall from grace of Bill Cooper." Only thing that surprises me is that he anything from which to fall. I'm not taking the time to read it but I'm glad to have it for archival purposes. One of the most hurtful impediments to establishing truth and getting it accepted is all this kind of simply awful staff.

The older I get (pushing 78) the more easily I forget. Except for the dim past, which I remember rather well. So, I have no recollection of Hansson or of the TV program he says we were both on. Must have been some time ago because no TV crew has been here since August.

My mall walking is having the desired effect, thank you. I still have my legs. Couple of weeks ago the family doctor smiled and said he'd expected me to lose them 10 years ago.

This time of the years the restrictions imposed upon us walkers by the greedy new owners, the de Battolos, make a problem. It is too cold now to walk in the parking lot until they open for us and it means I'll have to stay there longer in order to walk enough.

That means I'm later getting home and that means I have less time for the many things so many of which I can't find time for.

Thanks, best wishes, and hopes for a fine holiday season and a better year ahead than we have any rational reason to expect.

Hal

Dear Hal—

I've assembled some background on the fall
from grace of Bill Cooper. You were right or a year ago.

Talked to Lars Hansson about three weeks ago when "Bo" Britz came to talk to a meeting in Cottonwood (about 20 west of here). Lars told me of the TV program both you and he were on. He expressed chagrin that the portion aired quoting him seemed to reverse his position. He was anxious that you be aware of this and that he, in reality, was not in opposition to you.

Not having seen the program, I don't know firsthand what this reversal is all about.

Hope your mall walking is having the desired results.

Best wishes,
Ed DeMoe
