Private investigator william H. (Joe) Cooper was murdered because he was very close to proving that persons in the U.S. defense and intelligence communities conspired to kill President John F. Kennedy.

That is the contention of those who knew him best - his friends, relatives and even some persons who became targets for his unrelenting investigation.

Cooper devoted 10 years of his life to trying to solve the Kennedy assassination mystery. During the past year, he became a valued TATTLER source. Two exclusive TATTLER articles were based on information provided by Cooper.

He was shot to death in the bedroom of his Baton Rouge, La., apartment on Oct. 16. After one week of investigation, the East Baton Rouge Parish (County) Sheriff's Department ruled his death a suicide. However, the chief investigator in the case said openly that the ruling was "a matter of convenience" because "we don't know what happened."

"We had to rule it something,"
Sheriff's Sgt. Robert J. Shortess told TATTLEIL. "Our only choices were accidental, suicide or homicide."

Cooper was found shot in the face in his bed at 7:30 a.m., an Englishmade, .33-caliber revolver resting by his left side. Cooper was righthanded.

According to Sgt. Shortess' own report, it would have been impossible for Cooper to commit suicide.

TO DO SO, he would have had to accomplish the following unlikely forts:

After plucing the barrel to his right check and pulling the trigger, he would have had to wipe all priots from the weapon, take the gan in bis left hand, place it on the hed, ile back and pall the covers over himself - all before he died.

The coroner's report ladicates death was instantian and mon a faultet in the brain. Also make question is why Cooper would have gotten out of bed and placed a pot of coffee water on a kitchen burner if he intended to go back to the bedroom and kill himself.

Cooper, 50, had supplied TAT-TLER with information that two men, one a pilot, were offered $25,600 each to fly two unidentified men from Dullas to South America on the day Kennedy was murdered.

The detective assisted this reporter last summer in tracing the men in Laurisiana. When interviewed, both said they are convinced the offer was aimed at providing a means of escape for Kennede's assassins. They said they turned flown the offer.

Cooper also uncovered evidence unking high-ranking U.S. Navy officials with key assassination tiques.

Five days before his death, he asked with this TATTLISM reporter by telephone. He was enthusiable built new information he had interest to bear out his floory fluid a new force to be a built floor Kennik was hatched in Laubhuna.

Of the Tattler Staff

THE DAY BEFORE COOPER was killed, a letter and a packet of information mailed by him arrived in TATTLER's office. Included in the package was a report, copies of a number of government documents, letters and other supporting evidence. Before this reporter had a chance to discuss the information with Cooper, he was dead.

The inaterial is being analyzed for use in future acticles.

Sat. Shorters told TATTLER there was no apparent motive for Cooper to commit suicide.

The last time he talked to this reporter, he was in excellent spirits. On Monday and Tuesday before Cooper's death, he had been with his son-in-law, Jesse Jareau.

"He was in extremely high spirits," said Jacena. "The night before he was killed, he cooked some food and brought it over to my wife and I." (Coeper prided himself as a gonanet chef.)

Cooper's wife, Littlea, was in the apartment when her landsmal died. Seconding to authorities, she is not a suspect in his death. Cooper had no life insurance. Their marriage evidently was a bepty one, investigators teld TATTLER.

Mrs. Cooper said after Cooper had put coffee water on the stove and returned to bed, she go up, went to the kitchen and then to the hadronau.

When she heard a clot, she rushed to the hedroom and found her hashead dead. The bout door of the apartment was open, it had been locked the night before.

Sigt. Shortess told TATTLER a killer could have shot Cooper, then conceated himself in a closet and escaped during the hysteria of Mrs. Cooper and a daughter, who was also awakened by the shot.

"THERE COULD HAVE ALSO been a conspiracy," Sit. Shortess said, "and Cooper (may have) beat them to the punch by killing himself."

"But he knew enough about guns that he would have shot himself in the temple," Shortess said.

-Cooper had been a policeman in Baton Rouge for 10 years. He also served on police forces in Florida cities. In Baton Rouge, he was once named outstanding policeman of the year."

His fellow officers recall that he had an uncanny knack for details. As a policeman, this was reflected in many ways, Because of a hunch, he once arrested one of the FBP's 10 most wanted fugitives.

This peculiar knack for detail led Cooper on a decade-long investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy.

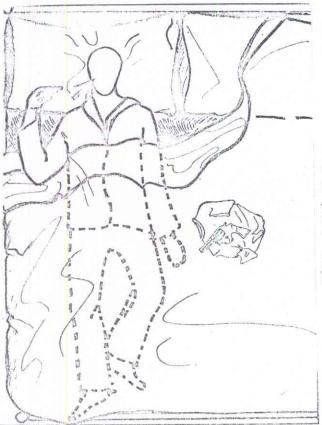

Cooper pursued a theory that Kennedy's assassination was planned aboard a Naval aircraft carrier, Shangri La, during a pleasure crosse in August, 1933, three mouths before Kennedy was shot to death in Dallas on Nov. 22, Cooper, then a policeman in Port Wolton, Fla., sought information from the Navy Department about the people on the cruise. He was never able to obtain the identities of two men abourd the ship. When he paraucal the issue – an investigation into what was ballyhooed as a routine junket – he was visited by a Naval intelligence officer who demanded to know why Cooper was interested.

COOPER, A WORLD WAR II NAVAL here who received a presidential citation, furnished TATTLER with the tips that led to one of the most bixarre revelations in the wake of the Kennedy tragedy:

Two men were offered a large sum of money to fly – no questions asked – two mystery men from Dallas to South America on the same day Kennedy was mardered.

One of these men, Billy Kerny, who lives at Choton, La., confirmed the details to this reporter. He said be had always felt that the proposed POLICE FOURID Joe Cooper in this position, with the death weapon lying by his left side. Cooper, who was right-handed, died from a bullet that entered his right cheek (arrow) and lodged in his brain. The gun, wiped clean of fingerprints was found lying on an undershirt. The illustration offers graphic proof Cooper could not have taken his own life.

TATTLER, such he had learned that his line yer, Fande Weber had once met with feerap, Divid Feerle and a third man. Feerle was a major figure in New Orleans Dist, Aity, Jim Garri an's investigation of the measuranties.

Weller confirmed the meeting for TATTLER. He explained that it was held in the early 1550s, just before the Bay of Pipa invarion. He said the three men would to accord a form to bey a large stage and flows to be delivered to Caba. The bayser said he never represented the group in the venture.

"The deal didn't come off," he said.

sign. Shortess told TATTLER the third turn Weber named is now under federal indictment for an offence involving a planeload of manifolms.

Todam Jeves, would fick, be well found to I be to a positive attendant clientary as mysterions as Comparison of

There is the solution in chart record with those purposed has the fo

"dec to all full timesed." When trip was to be an escape route for Kennedy's are realist.

Kemp and is never fold anyhory about the archive proposed except a close relative and his partner in the proferred venture.

Kemp's parties in the venture is a flaton. Here to businessman, was interviewed during the consecure that he condition that his norms not he prolibbed, he revealed the deballs of the offer, expressed the health fact the isomorphy assurable was involved, and among the cort who make its property.

at the taste. Kerop, the Batch Rouge by the awar and the Batch who made the other were all three employed of the attention to the the means the space area door

THE RIVER ROUGE BUSANESSTAN SAFER Cool is that he is a data added for deleter into a possible to add to connect a to the formal and the deleter.

Interpret by PTHIM often Compares the latter as said by the statement in debestor at the said because the

what he had a self-in he can be for a self-in he can b

Con a la min test fetter to