Sir: -

I've come across the fact that Lee Oswald was left-handed - p 58, Bantam BK edition 'A Matter in History' by Jean Stafford - perhaps it explains why Oswald knew so quickly the C-134 was a fake - perhaps you all ready have this info - but with your work on photos might this southpaw fact be significant?

Sincerely

Cutler

2/1 It is true that the mother said Oswald was left-handed, but she alone said that. There was no left-hand specification on the rifle order. That is a right-handed rifle. No one else to my knowledge ever said he was left-handed.
 It could, of course, be important.
 Close examination of those photos indicates other reasons for suspecting they are fakes, but the evidence is by no means certain. If you have a chance, look for example, at the left elbow in Ex 749 (the one of the pair without the rifle in his hands), and the thickness of the neck. Then there is the nose shadow, which goes straight down while the body shadow goes to his right. I have gotten an original print of both pictures and am not convinced that I can prove they are fakes, such as I'd like to. Thanks a lot.
 I'll be up your way next week, to be on WINT in Hartford and WNAV in Boston, 2/7 and 2/8, resp. and possibly to tape for the future.
