Ms:

your piece in DTH of XI/22/81 on Harold Weisberg quotes him as saying that despite his not knowing who killed JFK (and he's not trying to solve the crime) anyone else who names names and indicates he knows who the killers are is lying ....

may I take personal exception to that on two points:

1. I don't believe Harold would say that and mean it as you wrote it ..he has a drawing of the crossfire that occurred in Delaey Plaza that day and in the appropriate places, assassins' nests, there are names of the men who fired ...
2. the names on that drawing are the result of careful research and backed by believe in others' careful research ...one of them in fact is first-hand information which was discovered thru lie-detection equipment..that is:backed up by the use of that equipment ... while it is true no one has to agree with another researcher, and few really do, it certainly is not lying which has produced the considered opinions backed by factual information and research which has resulted in these names on that drawing this is a small insignificant point to you ..obviously not to me ..sincerely
