Dear Mary.

1.50

一種 一種の

A young men who is visiting and studying some of my files has found copies of the appendix of Post Morton. He has collisted them, and if you'd like a copy, I'll send it. Runs several hundred pages and apparently I included some of the decoments unde laying Will. It has been so long, I've forgotton.

When I wrote the enclosed carbon to my so-called publisher, I did not think of souding copies around. However, mig it might be of some interest. After you read it; would you please send it to Hoch?

I hope your silence is indication that all is well.

Lil fell Tuesday night and wound up with a Baseball on her left knee. She has been a resultably good and uncoup, sining patient, but she can't use the leg and is supposed to saty off it and in bed, with it up in the air. I took her to the hespital as soon as the blocking of the nerves eased off and she could feel it. They were astomated that the L-rays should believe breaks nor cracks, for they had anticipated from what had happened to it by then in appearance alone forecast the need to remove the kneeder by the piece. If there are no complications, the forecast is that after the swalling good down she'll be on crutches for a meet while, then a case for about 10 weeks.

It appears that the federal quardiens of the liberties of the all are busy. No time for details. But they seem to be framing more keys from what I've learned, one down, at least one to go.

Best to Back. Arch end overyone.

Hurriedly,