

DeLoach records

The FBI had a printed form for routings of communications by Mr. DeLoach. The attached copy is from 62-109060, Section 128, where it was attached to another record.

There is a space for Records Branch, but no copy was directed to it. There are directions for filing, but they do not refer to a standard FBI file number.

Does this not indicate separate filing for Mr. DeLoach's records and operations?

If so how could they be retrieved from Central Files if search is limited to Central Files and his records are filed separately?

I have gone over many thousands of pages of FBI records and a very large number of records originating with Mr. DeLoach but this is the first such routing slip I have seen. I take this to mean that these copies did not reach Central Files, with the exception of the record to which this was attached, or that in the FOIA processing this kind of information was removed and thus withheld.

This kind of information, what is withheld, can be important in searching for missing records or for information not otherwise provided.

Who receives what information can have importance to those using the information after its disclosure.
