Revolutionaries Planned Disorders, Claims Daley

Chicago Report Issued in Defense of Police

By PAUL A. DRISCOLL CHICAGO (AP) - Mayor Richard J. Daley said Friday | that disturbances during the Democratic National Convention were planned well in advance by revolutionaries intent t upon disrupting the convention and toppling the society's institutions.

Daley issued a 55-page report prepared in response to charges that police used excessive force in dealing with demonstrators and without provocation beat newsmen and bystanders.

The report says that despite "the guerrilla and psychological tactics which were employed by these revolutionaries" only a few serious incidents erupted.

"As is so often the case," the report states, "the trusting, the innocent, and the idealist were taken in and taken over."

The report says the news media also "responded with surprising naivety and were incred-ibly misused."

BERKELEY MENTIONED "The leaders of the dissident movement are nationally known agitators who had arrived fresh from triumphs at Berkeley and Columbia," the report states.

The report is a compilation of the city's case and includes biographies of demonstration leaders, a list of weapons al-legedly used by demonstrators and police and the thinking of city officials in preparing for the convention and the influx of thousands of antiwar activists.

Of the 641 persons arrested during the week, the report says, "An overwhelming majority . . . were not youngsters, were not students and were not Chicagoans."

"They were adult trouble makers who came into the city of Chicago for the avowed purpose of a hostile confrontation with law enforcement," it says.

DISSIDENT GROUPS Despite what the report calls the "unpopular views espoused by the dissident groups and the notorious background of their leaders," it says city officials sought to protect their rights of assembly and speech.

Demonstrators insisted on receiving permission to sleep in parks and to march on the International Amphitheatre, site of the convention.

The city adamantly refused, and demonstration leaders turned down alternate march routes.

Charges of police use of excessive force are being investigated by the Police Depart-ment, the report notes, along t with assessments of the per-t formances of governmental units and the news media.

DEPARTING WORDS "Most of all," the report says, "we are concerned about the lack of public awareness of the st significance of the departing words of the Yippie and Mob leaders, 'We won' and 'The rev-olution has begun."

Yippies are members of the Youth International Party, and s Mob refers to the National Mobilization Committee. "It seems clear," the report continues, "that a nucleus of ad-ult trouble makers avowedly seeking a hostile confrontation with the police will be engaging in the same activities . . . in other cities and towns across the nation.'

The activities, the report concludes, have as their ultimate goal toppling what dissident leaders consider to be the corrupt institutions of American society.
