JUSTICE BETRAYED: The Kennedy Assassination And the Garrison Trial

By James DiEugenio
Introduction by Zachary Sklar

This is the clearest, most up-to-date work on the assassination of John F. Kennedy and on Jim Garrison's thwarted prosecution of murder charges.

Justice Betrayed spans the post-World War II era up to the present, incorporating the latest revelations and most current research, including new documentation on the intelligence proprietary Perminex and its connections to Operation Gladio, former Nazis, the CIA, and the assassination. This book takes us back through Garrison's ground-breaking investigation, minute-by-minute and witness-by-witness, through the trial of Clay Shaw, and highlights the relentless campaign of government and media disinformation to which Garrison — and now Oliver Stone — have been subjected.

James DiEugenio is a historian and researcher who has devoted years to the study of the assassination, and of Garrison's trial in particular. Zachary Sklar is the editor of Garrison's own bestselling book, On the Trail of the Assassins, and the co-screenwriter, with Oliver Stone, of the film it inspired, JFK.
