The Washington Merry-Go-Round

THE WASHINGTON POST Tuesday, July 8, 1969

Dirksen Becoming a Problem for 1

By Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson

cult for the Nixon Administra-Republican Party. But, unofficially and in backstage hudquite sure whether they would do better without the leadership of the Minority Leader.

The long career of Ev Dirksen has been sprinkled with both drama and expediency.

Perhaps the most dramatic moment was at the 1952 Republican convention in Chicago when Ev stood in front of the TV cameras to berate Gov. Tom Dewey, chief backer of Dwight Eisenhower for President.

Shaking his right index finger, Dirksen, a pro-Taft man, thundered: "We have followed you before, and you took us down the path to defeat."

Dirksen mesmerized millions watching TV. But he did Foundry, National Lock and not win for Bob Taft. Dewey's man was nominated.

Since then, Dirksen's dra- tries, banking and insurance. matic talents have been widely noted, his expediency practiced behind the scenes. ria to seek legal counsel may One evidence of Dirksen's ex- simply speak well for the talpediency is his steadfast opposition to proposals that Sena-the Senate.

"Now it is proposed that I The most delightful and dra- be reduced to a class B citi- the Senate floor has increased the clients of his Peoria law matic member of the Senate is zen," Dirksen thundered when this speculation. When he bat-also becoming the most diffialso becoming the most diffi- the financial statement matter cation and for billboards, came up for Senate debate. "I there was an unkind suspition—Everett McKinley Dirk-did not give up my citizenship sen of Illinois. Officially, Dirk-when I came to the Senate. I cerned over Pabst beer and sen of Illinois. Officially, Dirk-sen is the Senate leader of the do not propose to do so now." Three times the Senate has voted on filing financial state- Pleasing the Clients dles, there are times when ments and three times the White House staffers aren't basso profundo from Illinois has cast his dramatic voice was a suspicion that he had and vote in the negative. His his law firm's bank and savinfluence has been the chief ings and loan clients in mind. factor in inducing the Senate. to veto the tougher code of ethical conduct passed by the House of Representatives.

Law Firm's Clients

There's a good reason why Ev Dirksen Peoria law firm.

The firm's lineup of clients is impressive. It includes International Harvester, International Paper, Pabst Brewing, of Squibb, must have been Pepsi-Cola Bottling of Peoria, highly pleased. State Farm Insurance, Mid-States Steel and Wire, Keystone Steel and Wire, Brass some two dozen others. They span a wide range of indus-tions went all the way to Peotion of what the law firm, around $2,900,000 by Haiti." nois. tors file their financial state-) through the Senate Republi-| What he did not mention was| @ 1969, Bell-McClure Syndicate, Inc.

ments with the secretary of can leader, can do for these that the contracting firm was clients is inescapable.

Pepis-Cola billboards.

When he fought against the Truth-In-Lending Bill, there When he tried to save the without saying that his manu-

When Dirksen permitted veterans hospital. drug lobbyists to use his of-Blackhawk had voted no-his fice, write his speeches and prepare his legislation on the subject, one of the major contributors to the Republican Party, Olin Mathieson, owner

There have been very concrete illustrations of how Dirksen helped certain law clients. Specifically it was Dirksen who tacked an amendment on the foreign aid bill. American citizens.

Lankton, Ziegle, Terry and As-And Dirksen's behavior on sociates and that they were The Senate listened and voted the way Dirksen proposed. There was another interesting case involving Veterans Administrator William Driver. Dirksen demanded that Mr. Nixon fire him, though he had a long and efficient record. What Dirksen did not tell the White House, however, was that Driver had antagonized one of Dirksen's staunch political supporters back in Chica-"right-to-work" laws, it goes go-the Blackhawk Construction Company. It was sore at facturing and mining clients Driver for failing to get a con-tract to build a Tampa, Fla.,

Blackhawk had built one veterans hospital and was late in completing it. There were other alleged inefficiencies. So when Blackhawk turned up as the low bidder for the Tampa hospital, VA Administrator Driver awarded the contract to the J. A. Jones Company of Charlotte, N.C., instead.

then Blackhawk sued Driver, together with Deputy Administrator A. H. Monk and Contracting Officer Jack Robblocking aid to countries that inson. Blackhawk was thrown The fact that these corpora- did not pay debts owed to out of court. It lost the suit. But later Driver and his top Dirksen indicated that he assistants lost their jobs, simply speak well for the tal- had in mind a "contractor and thanks to pressure from the