FIRST LOOK AT SEALED DALLAS FILES UNLOCK 29 YEARS PROVIDES SHOCKING NEW EVIDENCE J.F.K. WAS SHOT BY HIS OWN CHAUFFEUR

SHOCKING new evidence from secret files hidden by Dallas police for 29 years proves the final bullet that killed President John F. Kennedy was fired by his driver — Secret Service Agent William Greer!

And the astonishing police documents prove Lee Harvey Oswald, the man fingered as the lone assassin by the Warren Commission, wasn't even one of the president's killers.

Now, for the first time anywhere, an intensive GLOBE investigation has unearthed the hidden files — and the awful truth about JFK's murder.

At close range

Here are the shocking revelations:

- The famed Zapruder film capturing the moment of the assassination clearly shows Greer administering the coup de grace to the president.
- A doctor who performed the autopsy stated that the fatal head wound was caused by a handgun fired at close range.
- At least one other gunman, a man with a rifle who was firing down on the motorcade from the nearby railroad overpass, was involved in the Kennedy assassination.
- Six bullets from at least two assassins were fired at the president — not three shots as reported by the Warren Commission.
- Greer lied about why he mysteriously slowed down the president's car to nearly a complete stop during the shooting.
- Greer helped to carry Texas Gov. John Connally in the hospital on the stretcher in which the mysterious "magic bullet" — which killed JFK and wounded Gov. Connally — was found.

Many experts believe JFK's wounds were altered. But the shocking fact is that Greer was one of only two non-medical persons present in the autopsy room where the president's body was taken!

The secret files reveal the FBI was ordered to cover up the facts and frame Oswald by acting Attorney Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach — and they also show why the president was such an easy mark.

Traitor Greer actually slowed the president's limo to a crawl so JFK would be a sitting duck for the other marksmen waiting on the grassy knoll near Dallas Dealey Plaza and on a railroad overpass.

Then, to make sure the job was done, the Secret Service agent turned and fired the final, deadly bullet into JFK's head at point-blank range with his nickel-plated revolver.

And Greer can be seen

doing his dirty work in the famed film by eyewitness Abraham Zapruder. The coup de grace shows up as a blinding flare on the film — caused by the sun glinting off Greer's gun and the pistol's muzzle flash.

"People at the scene reported six or seven shots," says assassination researcher Larry Jamison of San Luis Obispo, Calif.

The fatal shot

"The first hit Kennedy in the throat and you can see in the film that Jackie leans over to help him.

"Then the car slows almost to a stop. It took almost 11 seconds for Greer to get out of the area — that's a long time.

"As you watch the film, you can clearly see the driver (Greer) turn, face the rear, put his own left arm across his right shoulder, aim and fire the fatal shot.

"He appears to be holding a .45 caliber pistol, which was standard issue for Secret Servicemen.

"You see the impact on the front of the president's head, then a piece of JFK's skull flies backward. Jackie scrambles across the trunk of the car to escape the gunman in the front seat.

"That's when Clint Hill, Jackie's own bodyguard, runs to the rear of the limo from the following car and pushes her back inside.

"The Warren Commission had this film and 'lost' three vital frames. The commission was a scam. The whole thing smells."

And witnesses said that the inside of the limo smelled of cordite — which only could have happened if a gun had been fired there, says Jamison.

Wounds were altered

But Greer's grisly role in the assassination wasn't finished when he pulled the trigger.

Documents place him in the hospital around Connally's gurney when the "magic bullet" was found, and new evidence suggests he planted it.

The Secret Service agent and his superior, Charles Kellerman, were the only government officials present at JFK's autopsy. And many experts say the wounds were altered by doctors to make the Oswald-single bullet theory seem plausible.

Greer retired at age 56 — almost immediately after the murder — and died of bleeding ulcers in Deale, Md., before his role in the killing came to light.

He's been dead about eight years, a source says, but any records of his death are scanty.

But eyewitness accounts in the reports confirm Greer's role in the murder. James L. Simmons, who was standing on the railroad overpass as JFK's motorcade approached, told Dallas police: "The car didn't speed up. In fact, it stopped or almost stopped."

And another eyewitness, World War II combat veteran Charles Brehm, who was standing just 20 feet away from JFK's car when the shooting started, told police: "The car lost momentum, almost as if the driver had taken his foot off the gas."

This was completely the opposite of Secret Service policy, which required the president's driver to step on the gas and get out of the killing zone as fast as he could, says historian Harold Weisberg, 78, who has spent 28 years investigating JFK's death.

But Weisberg says that Greer did more than just slow down — in fact, he actually stopped the car.

"Greer said that after the second shot, he stepped on the gas and raced toward the hospital," says Weisberg. "But according to a film taken that day, the brake light remained on the limo until after the final shot was fired.

Report on the radio

"There was no reason at all for the brake light to be on — unless Greer was deliberately setting up Kennedy as a target for a three-way crossfire."

And Weisberg says he caught Greer in another lie. The agent testified before the Warren Commission that he slowed down to report on the radio to the rest of the motorcade.

But his superior and partner, Kellerman, sit ting next to him, testified that he handled the radio, and not Greer.

Other documents prove Oswald was not one of the killers. Eyewitnesses said they heard shots coming from the grassy knoll and the railroad overpass — and not from the School Book Depository building where Oswald was.

One of the unearthed reports shows that cops arrested John Franklin Elrod minutes after police got a call reporting a man carrying a rifle was walking along the railroad tracks. Elrod was unarmed and later released.

But no attempt was ever made to find the man seen with the rifle.

And secret police reports also prove that Oswald could not have completed all the movements the Warren Commission said he did — after shooting JFK. According to the commission, Oswald fired the fatal shots at 12:31 p.m. from the sixth-floor window of the Depository and walked to the second floor, where he was confronted by a policeman in the lunch room.

After a supervisor told the cop that Oswald worked there, Oswald walked seven blocks and boarded a bus, which got bogged down in a traffic jam that was caused, ironically, by the shooting.

He stayed on the bus 10 minutes, traveling just two blocks, then got off with a bus transfer stamped 1 p.m., walked five blocks and took a cab.

The cabbie took him through heavy traffic for two miles, and Oswald got out and walked six more blocks til he reached his rooming house.

There, Oswald changed his clothes and walked nearly a mile, when he ran into Police Officer J.D.

Tippitt and shot him in a confrontation. But the suppressed reports mark Tippitt's shooting at 1:10 p.m., meaning Oswald did all that in just 39 minutes — an impossible feat! And other Dallas police and FBI records reveal the weakness of the case against Oswald.

None of Oswald's fingerprints was found on the weapons he supposedly used to shoot Tippitt or JFK, and witnesses who worked at the Depository reported that they never even saw Oswald that day.

But even more damning, Weisberg says a top official ordered FBI investigators to prove Oswald acted ALONE — and that there was no conspiracy to murder JFK.

"There is a handwritten memorandum dated Nov. 25, 1963, from deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to J. Edgar Hoover through his deputy," he says.

"The memo says: 'The public must be satisfied that Oswald was the assassin, that he did not have confederates who are still at large, and that the evidence was such he would have been convicted at trial.'

"So that memorandum shows clearly — that they did not intend to investigate the crime."

"I am convinced that there was a conspiracy and a cover-up, but there is no way of knowing now who did it."

Is Your Money Safe if You Enter a Nursing Home?

If you have worked hard all your life and managed to put away a nest egg, you might end up losing most of your life savings because of a defect in Medicare.

If you or your spouse suddenly become ill and require extended nursing home care... NO ONE will help you with the nursing home bills. Medicare won't and neither will your health insurance. By law you are responsible for the nursing home bills yourself. Only after you have used up virtually all of your money, will Medicaid step in. That's because Medicaid, like Welfare, only aids the poor. By some estimates, the average couple's life savings can be wiped out after only 13 weeks of nursing home care.

Rich people don't have to worry because they can afford super-expensive special nursing home insurance, while the poor are taken care of by Medicaid.

Now that just doesn't seem fair to working people with a lifetime of hard-earned savings. The system they have supported with tax dollars, seems to have forgotten them. Savings intended to provide security in retirement, or help for children, can quickly go up in smoke.

The fact is, if you don't know how to protect your assets, here's what can happen to you. By law, before Medicaid will pay nursing home bills, you have to spend all your countable assets except $2000 (or as low as $1500 in some states.) Countable assets mean not only money in checking and savings accounts... but also any funds in CD's, IRA's, Savings Bonds, Mutual Funds, stocks, whole life insurance, annuities and other types of investments.

They can also take a vacation home or a second car. In addition, your entire Social Security or pension check can be taken to cover nursing home expenses. What's more, if you are single or widowed, you can even lose your house.

According to the federal law called the Spousal Impoverishment Act of 1988, if one spouse requires extended nursing home care, the healthy spouse can be forced to surrender HALF of their combined countable assets. And if you have a sizable estate, they can legally take MORE THAN HALF.

Is there anything you can do to stop this nightmare from happening to you? Yes. You are protected by law and can use several legal techniques to place your countable (or vulnerable) assets into the uncountable (or protected) category. The problem is, most people are not aware of their legal rights. Unfortunately, most people think Medicare will take care of them, so they unknowingly leave their assets vulnerable and in jeopardy.

Your legal rights and the many methods of protecting your money are now revealed in "How to Protect Your Financial Security." This financial self-defense manual tells you simple legal procedures for preserving your money and warns of pitfalls to avoid. Here is some of the valuable material you learn:

- Four legal ways to turn countable (or vulnerable) assets into uncountable (or protected) assets
- How to protect your house from being sold to pay nursing home bills
- How to protect a second car or vacation home
- If you give your money to your children without following these precise guidelines, a nursing home could get your money anyhow

- This type of bank account can prevent a nursing home from touching it
- This common legal mistake can prevent you or your spouse from receiving emergency medical care
- What you need to know about Living Trusts
- How to prevent your bank account from being frozen if you enter a nursing home
- What lawyers never tell you about protecting your will

As a hard-working taxpayer, you have a legal right to protect your life savings for yourself, your spouse or your heirs. You don't have to be rich to have peace of mind. You just have to follow the easy steps outlined in "How to Protect Your Financial Security." Although "How to Protect Your Financial Security" can easily save you thousands of dollars, the price is very reasonable.
