Nov. 26, 1994

Dear Hal,

It was nice to hear from you. I don't know when I'll be in D.C. to visit my son and his family. I was planning to go out for Xmas, but had a heart attack, so it may now be several months before I make the next trip out to D.C.

Don't worry about discussing the JFK murder or other politics. I was merely thinking of a brief social visit. It would be so nice to see you again after all these years.

I'm sure we've been living in fascism for these past 49 years. I'm terribly scared that the Establishment will take off their mask, and go open with it. I don't know what more I can do to help deflate them before it's too late. I know they are running terribly scared. It won't take much to puncture their bubble. But what will that be? And can we do so before they get terribly violent?

This recent "improvement" in the economy is illusory. It's based 95% on the expansion of credit, which means people will soon have to pull in their spending in order to pay off the bills they've been running up. When that ⁽²⁾ happens, the whole economy will collapse.

This is so similar to the Dutch Tulip Bubble, the Mississippi Bubble, the South Seas Bubble, etc., that I'm amazed economists don't speak out now. I guess the problem is that they would lose their lucrative contracts with big corporations.

I think I own the book C. (I have so many books now that I lose track of them all.) But I have read it. I'm not familiar with the Sen. Hugo Black hearings, but will study them. Thanks for the tips. I've heard a lot about Case Open, and will have to buy a copy soon. I'm glad you're also doing more writing. I wish all of us "assassination buffs" would get everything down on paper. I often find others' little remarks to be enormously important. I'm getting down every thing I can remember. ~~off~~

I should tell you who the U.S. politician was - the one whose life I saved. It ~~was~~ ^{happened} in 1966, and the CIA's intended victim was Vice President Humphrey. He was going on an official visit to the Dominican Republic for the inauguration of that country's President, Balaguer. (3) Apparently the CIA never figured out I was the one who blocked Prem. I lived in fear that they would kill me - for 19 years - until my son turned 21. I then told him and have since told others and ^{have} spoken publicly about it.

I know now that Sen. Kefauver was murdered.
And for years I have heard that Adlai Stevenson was also murdered by the CIA because they feared that he would become a rallying point for anti-war (Vietnam War) activists. He was, as you know, so fed up with that war that he ^{had} decided to resign as U.N. Ambassador. He put out the word that he would keep quiet about the Vietnam War, but that apparently wasn't good enough for the Establishment. They are so scared, I can't begin to tell you how fearful they are. Have you had any personal experiences where they've contacted you? ~~is~~ And their voice is showing extreme fear? I don't want anyone to be afraid of me - and it took me a long time to figure out how fragile their system of covert fascism is & how

They all know it! Like they say, every (4) bully is terribly frightened and easily hounded when stood up to. This is esp. true of Nazis!

I'm not going to worry any longer about the dangers to me personally. If they nail me, I'll be in good company with all ^{those} they have murdered over the ^{last} 50+ years - the Kennedys, Martin Luther King, Anne Frank, Ester Kefauver, etc.

Did you see the recent death of Labour Party Chief John Smith? I'm pretty sure it was yet another CIA killing. He was on the verge of leading a huge victory for Labour, and the U.S. Establishment could not allow England to leave as alone as the last ^{de facto} fascist state in the Western ~~to~~ world. 3 years ^{ago} whatever it was, the CIA (I believe) stole the British election for Conservatives, and they couldn't do the same thing again - so they decided on yet another political murder. There's no way in hell they can keep their fascism going forever. Fascism is so inherently unstable.
I'm surprised they could go 49 years with it.
Hitler could only keep it going 12 years.

Well, Hal, best of wishes to you. One ^⑤ of these days, when we have restored our democracy fully, we're going to put up a statue of you on The Mall in D.C. You're the grandfather of all of our work! You've done more for democracy than you'll ever imagine!

Sincerely,

Hal

P.S. Looks like I'll be out there for sure at Xmas time. I don't suppose you & your wife could be at my son's house in College Park for a French meal I'll be preparing.
(I'm a French chef, too!)

That damn Posner. I've read part of his book "Hitler's Children." We've got to stop U.S. fascism before the economy collapses, and it will collapse (100% certainly!) any time. Believe it or not, I know the cause of the trouble. (I studied economics as an undergraduate.)

PSS Do you know the names (first names) and addresses of ~~the~~ the Olsen sons who live in Frederick? (He was the one the CIA gave LSD to & claimed he committed suicide in N.Y.C. in the 1950's.) I know Prof.
Starr whose their forensic expert, but would like to speak to them directly.)

I've got absolute confirmation that
Sen. Kefauver was murdered (just before JFK).

I've also got confirmation the CIA killed British Labour Party Chief John Smith, who was about to become Prime Minister. They substituted a "Bill Clinton-type" who will do their bidding. Do you know of anything re Clinton's involvement & with Col. North & CIA at that Mena, Arkansas airfield, or the bodies that showed up (supposedly) on railroad tracks in Arkansas?

Dear Hal,

Glad to hear from you and as I take it that you are OK.

I'm surprised that there is a West St, Paul. I'd have thought that would be in the river.

I see Jim Lesar only when he is here for my wife to work on his taxes and otherwise do not hear from him often. It has not been safe for me to drive out of Frederick since 1977 and I haven't. So I'm never in DC.

My health has deteriorated and I'm so ~~weak~~ ^{weak} I've not ^e ₁ been in the cellar where most of mt records are for months.

However, I continue to write, to make as much of a record for our history as is possible for me. I'm getting quite a bit on paper. Aside from Case Open which is still on sale I've another book overdue in being published and two more in rough draft.

As you may remember, I work ~~alone~~ ^{only} with fact. No theories or any kind. And I do not take time to discuss any theories with anyone.

So I would not want to take time for discussing you interesting paper.

If you are nearby and want to chat a little, fine.

But because of some unusual health problems I must be abed by 6 p.m. I am wide awake and cannot return to sleep that early. This morning it was 12:45 a.m. And I've been at it ever since.

For what relates to the Churchill part if you have not read Anthony Cave Brown's C, the title of the book, with a long subtitle using that man's name. Sir Stewart Menzies, as Churchill's paymaster, published by Hamillan several years ago, you may find part of it interesting. If your library has it.

Also on FDR, the hearings and reports of a Senate committee chaired by Hugo Black. I think it was on lobbying.

Best wishes,

Hal

Shouldn't please don't show this to Jim Lesar. When I'm again in D.C. could my son & I drive out & visit you? - 2nd 11/14/59

HOW WORLD WAR II REALLY ENDED

Harold H. Dorland
212 W. Thompson, Apt. 303
West St. Paul MN 55118
September 30, 1994

Forget everything you have been told about how World War II ended. Very little of the official version is true, but unfortunately it is the only account that has appeared in the history books. The massive crisis that we are in today is a direct result of a covert plot that brought that war to a conclusion. Closely related to this are numerous political assassinations that go back for several decades. Unless we confront this problem, we are not going to solve it. The truth, however, is so grotesque and unbelievable that it requires considerable courage to face it, accept it, and stay with it. Even as I write this I shake my head and tell myself that it can't be, but I know it is. As you can probably tell by now, we are dealing with massive repression rather than with a lack of facts. I know that once you have this "framework," you'll see the evidence all over the place. It has been hard work keeping the truth out of our conscious awareness all these years, but now it is time to let it in.

I stepped into all this back in the 1960's when I was a foreign service officer. While I was editor of the Secretary of State's Daily Summary, the first thing I had to write up each day was the body count in the Vietnam War, separated into 4 groups--American, South Vietnamese, Viet Cong, and North Vietnamese. (I'm glad now that the Vietnam Memorial Wall is so close to the State Department building in Washington.) I knew that all that death would not have been taking place if Roosevelt had lived through his fourth term. FDR had been pressuring the French and British to grant independence to their colonies well before W.W.II ended. I kept thinking over and over that if Roosevelt had only lived, we would not be having the Vietnam War, and so many lives would have been saved. And during the time I was "on the inside," I also had some experiences with CIA political assassinations, overseas and here in the U.S. I personally blocked the CIA from murdering one well-known American politician. I have always detested the taking of human life for business or political reasons, and so I decided to resign from State to get away from so much unnecessary killing. I found a job in the Labor Department, and started attending law school at night. But in May, 1970, when President Nixon invaded Cambodia and had the protestors deliberately shot to death at Kent State, I decided I would have to become politically active in my "spare time," even at the risk of my personal well-being, and so I joined a national group of lawyers and writers called the "Committee to Investigate Assassinations," headquartered in Washington, D.C. Three years later, during Watergate, we found out that our committee was a CIA front. I was unceremoniously expelled from the board of directors, and fired from my job at the Labor Department. Times have been pretty tough since then. I returned to Minnesota and found a job editing law books. On my own time I organized a state-wide group of "assassination buffs," and became president of it. But pressure was put on my employer, and I was forced to choose between my job and the assassination work. I chose the latter. Our group fell apart when the treasurer, who many suspected was "government," destroyed a bundle of checks that we had gotten in a campaign to raise funds.

I have spent thousands of hours researching the JFK murder and other dirty tricks carried out by the CIA and its parent group, the "Corporate Elite," headquartered in New York City, David Rockefeller, "Chairman of the Board." For many years I knew that there was something behind the JFK assassination that was even more horrid and fundamental than Kennedy's slaying in Dallas. To my shock I discovered that the Corporate Elite had in 1945 murdered President Franklin Roosevelt and cut a deal with the German Nazis to quietly close down W.W.II and turn the U.S. and U.K. against the Soviet Union. So here we are half a century later, after killing millions of human beings and wasting 6 trillion dollars on the Pentagon and CIA, and in the process wrecking our economy. But David Rockefeller will whine that it was their predecessors in the Corporate Elite, now all dead, who were solely responsible. Don't believe it for a single minute! The successors of the Corporate Elite have continued with their covert fascism, supporting every dictator they could find overseas, and mucking around with domestic politics, doing everything from rigging polls to stealing elections to murdering the two Kennedys, Malcolm X, Martin Luther King, and many other politicians. David Rockefeller's veto would have stopped the JFK murder when the Corporate Elite voted on it. Stop and think hard about that. The lie is "lone assassin"; the truth, David Rockefeller, is that your "lone veto" would have saved John Kennedy's life. In the name of decency, David Rockefeller, speak no more about "lone assassin"!

This conspiracy was organized in 1943, although the same group of billionaires had attempted to overthrow FDR in the mid-1930's in the plot involving Gen. Smedley Butler, and the Corporate Elite considered kidnaping

Roosevelt in 1940. The players in the 1943 plot were the German Nazis, British Conservatives, led by Winston Churchill, and the American Corporate Elite, with Allen Dulles in a key role. They not only concluded a covert peace settlement with Germany but started the Cold War, and came very close on dozens of occasions to launching a nuclear war, which would have killed us all. This danger remains, as does the mountainous spending on militarism and CIAism.

I cannot afford to send out more than 4 legal-size pages in this mailing, so it's necessary to eliminate almost all footnotes and to cut out a great deal of the substantive matter and proof. This means that I'm going to have to paint the picture with some pretty broad strokes. My purpose here is to break through our repression. To open this subject up. Please help me out by removing the staple and xeroxing these pages. And then sending copies of this paper to the history departments and political science departments of all the colleges and universities in your area. Also, please feel free to distribute copies to your teaching colleagues, students, reporters and friends. I would appreciate hearing your criticism, pro and con. I'll also ask you for your emotional support. This is a dangerous thing to be doing, and I know that I'm going to be in for real trouble for some time. I'm not Superman. I can't do this all alone. It may take years to get any of this in print, so let's start an informal exchange of letters and papers and ideas, as Otto Fenichel did after coming to America, or as the Founding Fathers did in the years before the American Revolution. (Let's not forget that the Revolution came about because of George III's militarism. The purpose of the tea tax or the stamp tax was to raise money for a standing army of 10,000 Redcoats in the colonies. I do not advocate violence, but if we don't straighten out our country, there certainly will be violence, on both sides, with the Corporate Elite possibly deciding on the use of open fascism to control the 90% of us who are in the middle class and the poor class. It's often been said that verbal violence--debate--is the only substitute for physical violence in the political realm. But the Corporate Elite has virtually shut down such debate in America by making sure critics don't get a foot on the political ladder, and by "deselecting" any office holders who become critics. And the Corporate Elite tightly controls the media.)

Let's get into substance. Winston Churchill seems to be central figure in this plot. He had always been extremely disturbed over the Communist victory in Russia in 1917. Right away he and British intelligence went to work to overthrow the Communists. They lined up a "lone assassin" to shoot Vladimir Lenin on August 30, 1918, as he was getting into his car. (I wonder whether the CIA didn't use that blueprint when it had Reagan shot in 1981, just as he was getting to his car. In both cases, the victims came within a hair's breadth of dying.) Churchill was also the one who cooked up the idea of invading the Soviet Union, and troops from over a dozen nations did so. President Wilson opposed that, but finally acceded to sending in American troops when it appeared the Japanese would grab all of Siberia. Wilson's purpose was not to overthrow the Communists, but to block the Japanese. The British were also supporting the "White Russian Army," which came very close to beating the Communists in the Civil War of 1918-20. The Communists were driven so far back that they were down to holding about only 8% of the Soviet territory, before the White Russian effort collapsed in 1920. But Churchill and British intelligence continued to plot the overthrow of the Soviet Union. Apparently, most of the plots in the 1930's against Stalin were real and were subsidized by the British. We have been told that they were merely a figment of Stalin's imagination, but our own Ambassador in Moscow at the time of the "Show Trials," Joseph Davies, reported that the defendants were in fact guilty. Who knows but that the recent collapse of the Soviet Union and Communism were not "engineered" by the CIA? Economists were saying back in the 1950's that if we raised our defense budget high enough, the Soviets would follow suit, and that that would bankrupt them. Another important factor in the collapse was the massive foreign debt David Rockefeller and his fellow bankers "arranged" for the Soviet Union. The CIA lied about the amount in several annual issues of its World Fact Book until the press found out that the total sum was $87 billion dollars!

Winston Churchill was also a prominent participant in the negotiations that resulted in the Versailles Treaty. The then-British Prime Minister, David Lloyd George, had difficulty controlling Churchill, who teamed up with French Premier Georges Clemenceau, to scuttle the democratic efforts of Wilson. Wilson and Lenin were the two idols of the European masses yearning to be free, and Churchill was not going to allow democracy to gain a foothold in Europe over the old system. Conventional wisdom also tells us another lie, that Wilson went down to defeat with his 14 Points because he was an inflexible moralist. In fact, Churchill and Clemenceau were plotting in the shadows with Americans to torpedo Wilson completely. The Dulles brothers, Allen Dulles and John Foster Dulles, were at Versailles along with their uncle, Secretary of State Robert Lansing. None of them were fans of Wilson, and I suspect all three colluded against him, along with Churchill. Wilson was talked into sacrificing 12 of his Points at Versailles in order to save his idea of a League of Nations, and then, of course, the League was later rejected in the U.S. In all likelihood, this plot was a "package deal," orchestrated by Churchill, but without the knowledge or concurrence of Lloyd George. The schemers did not, however, anticipate that President Wilson would take his case to the people in his famous railroad trip around the country. Wilson was overwhelmingly convincing the American public to support the League of Nations when, very conveniently for the plotters, he suffered a "stroke" and was put out of commission permanently. And, of course, the Versailles Treaty was then defeated in the U.S. Senate. I suspect that Wilson was actually poisoned with arsenic tri-oxide, which can give symptoms of stroke for the unsuspecting. And while I'm on this subject, I might add that Churchill and British intelligence probably also assassinated Lenin with arsenic. He died at a relatively young age, 53. But it will be difficult to prove, if his body was preserved with arsenic, the universal practice used by museums to preserve their animal specimens. But Wilson's body is entombed in the National Cathedral in Washington, and could be easily tested now for arsenic or any other poison.

A related point which I should have mentioned above was that President Wilson did not want to take the U.S. into W.W.I. He was dragged into it. When that war began, we were in a mild depression. The British started to buy massive amounts of American goods. This ended our economic downturn, but then the British ran out of hard currency and gold to pay us. New York bankers rushed in to make loans to American manufacturers so that our factories would not be shut down again. But the war dragged on, and American bankers were beginning to fear that if Germany won, they would lose all their money. It wouldn't surprise me to find out that they worked on the Q.T. to have the Lusitania sunk in order to turn Americans against Germany. Anti-British feeling had been a staple of American political thought since the American Revolution. (I can even remember how strong it was in 1939, and I was only 4 years old at the time!) In addition, more Americans were (and probably still are) of German descent than British.

When the British found themselves at war with Germany in 1939, it was ironic that Churchill had to turn to President Roosevelt and Joseph Stalin to save England. Churchill had always called Roosevelt "America's Kerensky." The two leaders had never been friends. Roosevelt disliked Churchill from the first time they met, two decades earlier. Before the war started Churchill oftentimes expressed his admiration for fascism. At one time he had even said that if he were an Italian he would have become a member of Mussolini's party! A related point is the real significance of the Munich Conference. The lie that we have been told over and over is that it was learning the lesson that we have to stand up to dictators. What really happened there was that the French and British spent the whole time trying to convince Hitler to attack the Soviet Union and smash Communism. One should recall that the British and French kept the Americans and Soviets out of the Munich Conference, and with plenty of reason!

It's also significant that Churchill sent his agent, William Stephenson, also known as "Intrepid," to the Rockefeller Center in New York City, rather than to Washington, to enlist the Americans in the war against Hitler. In a book published in 1991, Betrayal at Pearl Harbor, British authors James Rusbridger and Eric Nave state that British intelligence had broken the Japanese code, and that Churchill accordingly knew that Pearl Harbor was to be attacked but kept the information from Roosevelt in order to rouse the American public and thereby pull us into the war. If this is true, and I suspect it is, then 2,500 U.S. Navy men died needlessly in the conflagration at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941.

Churchill has been held up to us as the great leader of the alliance against Germany and Japan. This is but another lie of the Corporate Elite, who don't want the credit to go where it belongs: to the Soviet Union that did most of the fighting and lost 20 million of its citizens, and to the U.S., which supplied most of the war goods to the Soviets, and lost 400,000 of its own soldiers and sailors. Churchill certainly spun some catchy phrases during the war, but he had virtually nothing to do with achieving the final victory. My friend, Tris Coffin, the writer, once told me that it was also Churchill who talked Truman into dropping the two atom bombs on Japan. More needless killing. Is it no wonder that Churchill belted down two bottles of brandy every single day of his life? But that isn't even the half of it. After the Soviet Union and the United States entered the war, Churchill schemed to postpone the Normandy Invasion as long as possible, hoping that the Germans would destroy the Soviet Union. He probably was responsible for getting America engaged in the fighting in North Africa, Sicily, Italy, and Southern France so that the Germans could decimate the Soviets along the Eastern Front. But Churchill was busy with other plotting too. When Roosevelt wanted to work with the French Admiral Jean Darlan in the North African campaign, Churchill had the Admiral assassinated.

The turning point of the war came with the Soviet victory at Stalingrad on February 2, 1943. Churchill panicked as he envisioned the Russians marching all the way across Europe right up to the English Channel. He frantically tried to talk Roosevelt into an invasion that would move straight up Eastern Europe to cut off the Soviets. That was his nonsense about invading the Balkans in order "to hit the Nazis at the soft underbelly of Europe." Churchill failed with that idea, but he continued to work feverishly to stall the Normandy landing, something that greatly angered Roosevelt, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, and Stalin.

Meanwhile, FDR was doing all he could to reassure Stalin of America's good intentions, and his plans to work with the Soviet Union after the great war to bring lasting peace to the world. Roosevelt went quite far. For example, when security officials at the 1943 Tehran Conference told him he was not safe at the American Embassy, which was located a good distance from downtown Tehran, he chose to accept Stalin's offer to stay at the Soviet Embassy, rather than Churchill's offer. The British Embassy was located next door to the Soviet Mission. Roosevelt also took Stalin's side time after time with regard to substantive issues, and he joined Stalin in ribbing Churchill on numerous occasions. Finally, Stalin did come to trust Roosevelt, but he continued to keep a watchful eye on Churchill.

Soon after the Stalingrad victory, Churchill enlisted the U.S. Corporate Elite in behind-the-scenes talks with the German Nazis. Allen Dulles, the OSS point man in Switzerland became deeply involved in this covert operation behind Roosevelt's back. Rudolf Hess, who had flown to England on a peace mission in May, 1941, was enlisted to help. (It is yet another lie that Hitler knew nothing of Hess's plans to fly to England. Hitler had spies everywhere in Germany, and would have learned of the plan sometime during the two weeks that were required to prepare Hess's aircraft for the extra-long trip.) Hess was apparently kept in England after the war ended. The "Hess" who went on trial at Nuremberg was somebody else. Reichsmarschall Hermann Goering, who sat next to "Hess" during the trial, kept nudging him and asking, "Who are you? You're not Rudolf Hess." This "Hess" also refused to see "his family," and answered most of the questions put to him during the trial by saying he didn't remember. The Corporate Elite told us for decades that the only reason he was being kept as the lone inmate at Spandau Prison in Berlin was that the Soviets didn't want him released. But, in 1987 when Mikhail Gorbachev announced that "Hess" could be let out of prison, British intelligence agents promptly assassinated him! How on earth could the caballists keep an innocent man from spilling the beans all those years? They used a ploy known as "Adolf's Persuader," in which they tell a person to do what they order him to do or they will kill his children. Like some in the Corporate Elite and the CIA brag, "It works every time." And lest anyone think it's not used in the U.S., I can report to you that it was recently used here in Minnesota to force a politician out of the race for governor, because the Corporate Elite feared he would become the 1996 Democratic Party candidate for president of the United States, and win.

Churchill did manage to stall the Normandy invasion for a couple of years, thus adding millions to the Soviet death toll. Meanwhile, his colleague, Allen Dulles, was busy setting up a secret communications line to Hitler using an SS General, who had once been an aide to Himmler, Gen. Karl Wolff. Churchill and Dulles and the others thought that they could get away with setting up Heinrich Himmler as the new German Chancellor to replace Hitler, who could not stay on after the war because he "had bad press." (Imagine that! They were ready to install Himmler in power, even though he had been running the concentration camps and murdering millions of innocent Jews! They based this decision solely on the fact that Himmler was not widely known in the U.S. at that time, and they thought they could fob him off on the American public. After the war ended, the British said that they had captured Himmler, but that he committed suicide. That's yet another lie. "Himmler's body" was that of his double, and that body had papers on it identifying it with the actual name of the double.) I won't go into the secret negotiations in Sweden and elsewhere, except to say that Count Folke Bernadotte may have been assassinated in 1948 by the CIA or British intelligence because "he knew too much" about the Himmler plan. He was a go-between during some of those negotiations.

Well, if all these shenanigans were not enough, the conspirators started to poison Franklin Roosevelt with intermittent doses of arsenic tri-oxide. And to add insult to injury they started the rumors about FDR being a dying man. The first dosage was apparently given to FDR at the Tehran Conference in 1943. With each subsequent dose, FDR would show the typical symptoms of such poisoning, such as upper respiratory difficulty and heart trouble, but then he would recover, only to take another turn for the worse with the next dose of poison. Unfortunately, Roosevelt's physicians did not suspect poisoning. They were concerned enough about him to bring in a heart specialist, Dr. Howard Bruenn, a young Navy physician at Bethesda Naval Hospital. (Dr. Bruenn was with FDR in Warm Springs when the President died on April 12, 1945, and expressed surprise that it was not Roosevelt's heart that killed him, but his lungs which stopped functioning. More on this later.)

Another important part of the plot was to substitute Harry Truman on the ticket in 1944 for Henry Wallace, who was even further to the left than Roosevelt. (This is known inside the beltway as "The Vice President Trick," and was later used on Eisenhower and Kennedy. Here in Minnesota, the CIA attempted to use it against the liberal Republican candidate for governor in 1990, Arne Carlson.) I'm sure that Truman did not know that he was being used in this way, but the Corporate Elite had done its homework and knew Truman's psychology well enough to know that he would, as President, allow them to create the first era of peacetime militarism in our 350 years of existence. Truman unknowingly went along with them later, as expected, but after leaving the White House, he seemed to have second thoughts about it. He expressed bitter criticism of Pentagon generals, and in 1961 stated that he was sorry that he had let the CIA be created in 1947. (The Corporate Elite had earlier asked Roosevelt to do so, but he had the good sense to say no.) But back to the 1944 Democratic Convention. I was 9 years old and happened to listen on the radio to the knock-down-and-drag-out fight to dump Vice President Henry Wallace. Roosevelt felt guilty about going for the fourth term, and left it up to the Convention to pick his running mate, just as he had done in the 1940 Convention. The Corporate Elite surmised that he would do that again in 1944, and so early on it recruited Bob Hannegan, the crooked political operator from Missouri, to secure the Truman nomination by covertly getting the necessary commitments months in advance from big-city organized-crime groups and their political machines in the North and from conservative Southerners, who made up a substantial block of the Democratic Party. After he was chosen, the Corporate Elite's propaganda machine went to work peddling lies about how Truman would strengthen the ticket, etc. None of this was true. Before the convention, Truman was favored by only 2% of the voters, but Wallace was extremely popular all over the country, and especially so with farmers, who otherwise might have voted Republican. In those days, farmers constituted 20% of the population, and they loved Wallace for what he had done for them during the 1930's when he was Secretary of Agriculture. (Something related to all this is the 1948 presidential campaign, in which the Corporate Elite had its candidates heading the tickets of both major parties. Truman was despised by voters, and probably would have lost to Tom Dewey, another rightist, but Clark Clifford figured out that Truman could win if he changed his campaign to sound like Roosevelt, so during the last 4 weeks, he talked New Deal exclusively, and narrowly won. Let's call this trick "Both Our Boys." With the exception of Eisenhower and JFK, we've been given this choice ever since the death of Roosevelt. Clinton is no exception.)

In 1945 the war was drawing to an end. Allen Dulles, in Switzerland, was staying in close contact with Hitler, using Gen. Wolff as his messenger. Hitler had often boasted that he would eventually split the Allies and cut a deal with either the Soviets or with the British and Americans as the war round down. Dulles and Churchill did their utmost to make certain that it was with the U.K. and the U.S. Roosevelt would soon be dead, and the U.S., the U.K. and Germany would turn on the Soviets to destroy the evil of Communism. But then suddenly something went wrong. Stalin's spies in Switzerland discovered the Dulles operation. Stalin fired off a telegram to Roosevelt to complain. FDR knew nothing of the Dulles plot, and so in his response he expressed surprise to Stalin that he (Stalin) would distrust him. That was the last thing President Roosevelt ever did. Realizing that they were in danger of being exposed, the conspirators decided to kill FDR immediately. They would have to use a poison that would act much more quickly than arsenic, so they settled on cyanide which they put into the gruel that Roosevelt ate around noon each day to stimulate his appetite. FDR ate a spoonful of the gruel, and passed out. He died at 3:35 p.m. Dr. Bruenn had no reason to suspect poison and no autopsy was done. But Michael Reilly, chief of the White House Secret Service Detail, did suspect poison, and sent the unwashed breakfast dishes to a chemist to have the food scaps tested. He got a negative report. It's too bad that I wasn't there to help him, with all the knowledge I've recently learned about various poisons. With one exception, cyanide compounds have to cause death within 4 hours or the intended victim survives. Going back 4 hours from the time of FDR's death, the earliest he could have ingested the cyanide was 11:35 a.m., and that ruled out the breakfast food.

Dr. Bruenn was surprised to see Roosevelt's lungs give out. He had thought that the President would die from heart trouble, but his heart kept beating for 5 minutes after his breathing stopped! Lung failure and FDR's other dying symptoms are definitely those that are caused by cyanide poisoning. And once again the Corporate Elite fed us disinformation, reporting that FDR, like President Wilson, had been afflicted with a stroke.

About a week later, Allen Dulles had Gen. Wolff carry an escape message to Hitler in the Berlin bunker. One of Hitler's two pilots would land near the bunker, pick up the fuhrer, and fly him to a secret OSS landing field near Wiesbaden. Dulles would be there to greet him, and forward him on to safety in the U.S. The thinking was that America would be the best place to secret Hitler, something later proved when Israeli agents nabbed Adolf Eichmann in South America. I believe that Hitler was set up in a mansion on the Virginia side of the Potomac River, somewhere between Washington and Leesburg. I don't imagine that it would take much effort to locate his dwelling, because of the way it had to be guarded and the recluse manner in which he was forced to live. If I am correct, Hitler did not die until the early 1970's. I am aware of how unbelievable this is, but all I can say is take some time and try to prove me wrong.

Churchill and Dulles and the other conspirators moved on to get no less than 50,000 other Nazi war criminals to safe havens in the Western Hemisphere. Only about 2,000 were sent to Canada and the U.S. for fear that any more would give away the plan. It's interesting to watch the Corporate Elite squirm about these war criminals when they are brought to light. Invariably, we are told they lied on their individual immigrant visa applications, denying membership in the Nazi Party. They were told to do so. By 1952, the Corporate Elite managed to change the U.S. Immigration Act, so that Nazis were no longer barred from the U.S. Recently, when liberals raised a fuss about that "gap," the Corporate Elite told us that it was a mere oversight, but this was yet another lie.

Churchill and Dulles et al also helped Martin Bormann escape to South America where he became leader of the "Fourth Reich." (When I was in the State Department I once saw CIA photographs of his house, which was located next to the Pilcomayo River or the Parana.) Disinformation was put out that Bormann had died in Berlin after escaping from Hitler's bunker via a secret door to an underground subway tube. Reporters proved that the source had lied. Dulles had also laid plans to get the gold out of the Reichsbank (the German Central Bank) in Berlin before the Soviet troops captured the city. That gold, worth in today's value of the dollar about $70 billion, was shipped to Bormann and his fellow Nazis in South America. Is it any wonder that the "Fascist International" is thriving to this very day? And is it any wonder that every Nazi war criminal captured since W.W.II has had ties to the CIA? But of course the Corporate Elite lies about the reason, saying they had special knowledge or skills needed in the fight against Communism. Lies, lies, lies, and more lies! "Oh what a web we weave when at first we attempt to deceive."

Before I tripped onto this plot, I had always wondered why Churchill had not traveled to Washington to attend Roosevelt's funeral. The ancients used to believe that the murderers would not attend the funeral. Churchill certainly had no pressing business in London. The war was winding down. And Churchill was in as good health as any souse could expect to be. The next year he managed to travel to Westminster College in Missouri where he gave his famous "Iron Curtain" speech. He stole that phrase from Hitler's propaganda chief, Dr. Joseph Goebbels. But what does a little plagiarism matter, when that phrase served so well to ignite the Cold War? (More recently George Bush appropriated the phrase "New World Order" from the title of a 1941 book by Adolf Hitler.)

There are many other questionable deaths, which the Corporate Elite may have caused. Gen. Butler, who the Corporate Elite tried to get to lead a fascist coup in the U.S. in 1934, died in 1940. (See George Wolfskill's book, The Revolt of the Conservatives.) Wendell Willkie, the liberal Republican nominee for President in 1940, died unexpectedly in 1944 at the age of 43. Roosevelt liked him so much that they were planning to jointly organize a "Liberal Party" after the war. It's not a well-known fact but FDR planned not to run in 1940. He had decided to enlist either Harry Hopkins or Minnesota Governor Floyd Olson. Both however were stricken with "stomach cancer," which happens to be a common misdiagnosis for arsenic poisoning. (Edsel Ford died of "stomach cancer" too. Somebody ought to check out his rival for the presidency of Ford Motors, Harry Bennett, the thug who did all of Henry Ford's dirty work.) Olson died, and Hopkins became disabled. So Roosevelt was forced to run again in 1940 to forestall a conservative victory with Democrat James Farley, who had been lined up by the Corporate Elite. For decades the Corporate Elite castigasted FDR for going for the third term, against all tradition, but now it turns out that the blame really belongs on the Corporate Elite itself. You may be asking whether there is any limit to the Corporate Elite's lying and denying. No.

The United Nations was an idea of President Roosevelt, but one would never know that reading our school books. But Americans are told over and over that the Rockefellers donated the land along the East River on which the U.N. buildings were constructed. This is another trick of the Corporate Elite to snatch credit away from "radicals" or "leftists" or liberals. (A good example of this was the work of the Corporate Elite to make sure that liberal senators such as George McGovern and Charles Goodell and student demonstrators did not get any of the credit when the Corporate Elite decided to terminate the Vietnam War. We might call this trick "Don't Give Credit Where Credit Is Due.")

As soon as Harry Truman became President, Churchill telephoned him in order to talk him into turning the entire war effort against the Soviet Union. As you can see, the plotters apparently thought that it would take the big enchilada himself to convince Truman. (See p. 416 of Elliott Roosevelt's book A Rendezvous with Destiny.) In Austria, U.S. troops were even put on the alert to get ready to turn their guns on the Russians! Fortunately, Truman said no to Churchill. Eduard Schulte, the German businessman who risked his life to get the first word to Americans about the slaughter of the Jews, thought that he would be chosen for the cabinet in the first post-war German government. But he wasn't. Nor were several other Germans who had had contact with Dulles during the war: Eduard Waetjen, Gero von Gaevernitz, and Hans Gisevius.

After W.W.II Americans started to ask who had financed Hitler from about 1920 until he assumed power on Jan. 30, 1933. By 1923 Hitler was awash in big money. He had a chauffeur-driven Mercedes limousine, and an apartment that covered an entire floor of a downtown building in Munich. Not bad for an uneducated person! As I mentioned above, U.S. bankers and industrialists forced President Wilson to enter W.W.I on the side of the British because that was where their money was. At that time they had very little invested in Germany. But they began to flood Germany with their money in 1923, because they had nowhere else to invest it, and because they wanted to prevent a take-over by Communists. About that time they also began to finance Hitler and his Nazi Party. Henry Ford alone gave Hitler one-fourth of all the money he raised up until 1933. The Rockefellers gave Hitler one-third of a billion dollars, in today's value of the dollar. Hitler also received huge contributions from officers of the J.P.Morgan Bank. (See the books Facts and Fascism by George Seldes, and Hitler's Secret Backers by Sidney Warburg. The latter is available from Tom Davis Books, Box 1107, Aptos CA 95001. I should warn you that there is some question about its authenticity, but I would say that it probably is true in general terms at the least.) The Corporate Elite has, however, lied to us about this important point, saying that Hitler was financed by German industrialists and bankers, and primarily by Fritz Thyssen. But Thyssen gave Hitler only $3 million dollars, in today's value of the dollar. And much of that money was given after Hitler became Chancellor, not before. Stop and think about this: the Rockefellers gave Hitler more than 100 times as much money as did Thyssen! But you'll say that that can't be because the Rockefellers are "Eastern Establishment Liberals." That phrase was coined by the public relations expert, Ivy Lee, who just happened to be one of America's leading fascists in the 1930's! And don't forget that Allen Dulles always called himself a liberal. I think that he confused sociopathy with liberalism, but the two are different. Hitler was a sociopath but not a liberal. Does Allen Dulles sound like a liberal in what he had said in 1943 according to German Prince von Hohenlohe, who was a "peace emissary" from Hitler: "He (Allen Dulles) was fed up with listening all the time to outdated politicians, emigres and prejudiced Jews. In his view a peace had to be made in Europe in the preservation of which all concerned would have a real interest." Von Hohenlohe also reported Allen Dulles as saying that "...while he (Dulles) had 'scant sympathy' for Soviet Russia, he did not 'reject National Socialism in its basic ideas and deeds'..."! Some liberal! Some member of the Warren Commission!

Before closing, I should explain the recent book describing the Soviet autopsy on "Hitler's body." Part of the Dulles plan to fool the Russians was the planting of false dental records in the bunker. These were captured by the Soviets. They matched the teeth of the body they recovered in the Chancellory garden. But that body was the body of Hitler's double. To help fool the Soviets, two SS dental technicians, Kaethe Heusemann and Fritz Echtmann, were instructed as to what to say. (N.B. that all the German players in the plot are SS.) But during the 1980's a Canadian dental forensic expert, Dr. Robert Dorion, stated that, after studying thousands of pictures of Hitler speaking, the dental "evidence" that the Soviets got was not that of Hitler's! Now you know why. The British had also sent the famous historian, Professor Hugh Trevor-Roper, to examine and report on Hitler's demise. He too fell for the planted evidence, but he apparently learned his lesson, because he refused to accept the findings of the Warren Report.

There's no getting around the fact that Hitler was extremely popular with Germans by 1935, and the question is often asked why. Hitler knew nothing about economics, but he was fortunate to have an economics czar who did, Dr. Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht, who had grown up in Brooklyn. Schacht knew Keynesian economics well before Lord Keynes published his famous book in 1936. Schacht borrowed enormous sums of money and Hitler spent it on rearmament. But this did get everyone back to work, and people gave Hitler the credit. This was paradoxical, because Hitler did not like Schacht, and eventually forced him out of office. By 1939 the German economy was on the verge of collapsing, however, because of the heavy borrowing. Hitler invaded Poland and thus started W.W.II to either cover up the crisis or to prevent the collapse, or for both reasons. Think hard about this because the U.S. is in that position right now. There was this degree of "rationality" to Hitler's act, but the Corporate Elite has ever told us that Hitler can be explained by psychology alone--in other words that he was nuts, case closed. I hope we solve our crisis in a more constructive way, but time is running out.

COMPARISON OF FDR'S DYING SYMPTOMS WITH THOSE CAUSED BY CYANIDE POISONING:

"The accuracy of death certificates in indicating the precise cause of death has been assailed so often that it is hardly necessary to consider it in detail." Hutchinson and Acheson, Strokes, Philadelphia, 1975. "A case of cyanide poisoning can be easily missed, not only because poisoning with cyanides is uncommon, but also because there may not be any characteristics to arouse suspicion." P.302, Fatteh and Abdullah, Handbook of Forensic Pathology, Philadelphia, 1973. "Death occurs within 4 hours with all cyanide derivatives except sodium nitroprusside." Handbook of Poisoning, 9th ed., Los Altos CA. "The Nazis used cyanide in their extermination camps." Polson and Tattersall, Clinical Toxicology. "Death at the time of stroke is not common." Miller, Symptoms, New York, 1976.

Unless otherwise indicated, the symptoms of cyanide poison shown in this column are from Gosselin, Smith and Hodge, Clinical Toxicology of Commercial Products, 5th ed., Baltimore, 1984:

A. Headache. Sitting, Handbook of Toxic and Hazardous Chemicals, Park Ridge NJ, 1981.

B. Sudden loss of consciousness.

C. Skin is covered with sweat.

D. Violent convulsions, epileptiform or tonic, sometimes localized but usually generalized. Also palpitations (tremblings).

E. Respirations become rapid and then slow and irregular.

F. In the early stages of poisoning an increase in vasoconstrictor tone causes a rise in blood pressure.

G. This is followed by a weakening of the pulse.

H. Involuntary urination and defecation occur.

I. Paralysis follows the convulsive stage.

J. Dilated pupils.

K. Skin turns a bright pink. Just before death, cyanosis becomes marked. Fatteh, cited above.

L. Treatment: administer amyl nitrate.

M. Administer artificial respiration.

These are FDR's dying symptoms as reported by Dr. Bruenn on p. 590 of his article that appeared in Annals of Internal Medicine, April, 1970, except for the citations from Dr. McIntire.

A. FDR had a "terrific occipital headache."

B. The President became unconscious "a minute or two later."

C. FDR was sweating profusely.

D. FDR had fairly frequent generalized "tetanic" (tonic?) contractions of a mild degree and occasional spasms of rigidity.

E. At first, FDR breathed stertorously but regularly. Then his breathing became irregular.

F. Systolic pressure rose to over 300! This is intense vasoconstriction.

G. Blood pressure showed signs of falling. McIntire, White House Physician, New York, 1946.

H. He voided involuntarily.

I. Reflexes were unobtainable in the legs. Right elbow was +++.

"Paralysis was present." McIntire.

J. Dr. Paullin, called in from Atlanta, said both of FDR's pupils were dilated. Dr. Bruenn reported that the right pupil was fully dilated, but the left partially.

K. FDR was at first quite pale, but then "his color quite improved."

McIntire, cited above, said that FDR's skin then became cyanotic.

L. Dr. Bruenn gave Roosevelt amyl nitrate.

M. Breathing stopped suddenly. Dr. Bruenn pronounced FDR dead.

President Roosevelt's body was quickly embalmed. "Embalming with formaldehyde makes it difficult to detect cyanide." Forensic Medicine, Vol.III. "Avoid embalming if you suspect cyanide poisoning." Polson, cited above, at p. 149.

THE END.
