Dear Harold:

Here is the important correspondence on the Cuban Falange story. Please bear in mind that the letters from Elisha's Pond are definitely not for public consumption.

You might also tell the person to whom you are showing the correspondence that the name of the secret service man who had to crack down on Rivero during World War I is Jose Matienzo, and his address is 40-11 82nd Street, Jackson Heights, Long Island. I understand he is still in possession of an editorial entitled "Gold, Gold, Gold!". The editorial ran in the "Diario de la Marina" upon the entrance of the United States into the World War, and explained this entrance as being effected by greed.

I have just learned that Rohm & Haas intends to make all sorts of trouble for us right now. They have a nice big battery of high-priced counsel, who threaten to sue for libel if we ever do another story on them. Our friends in the Department of Justice might be interested in knowing about the latest threat.

Regards,

Allan Chase
