F. News 1/1/68

High Court To Rule On Equal Time Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) - With "personal attack" and "political fer free broadcast time for an on eye toward this year's presiordial race, two major net-ords want the Supreme Court take a new look at federal uqal-time regulations.

The court was asked to decide before next spring whether Federal Communications Commissioners rules requiring broad-casters to provide ree time to individuals or groups to answer editorials" don't violate free- answer, press constitutional guarantees.

was filed Monday by the Colum- voring a specific candidate. bia Broadcasting system and National Broadcasting Co., grams-such as interviewsalong with the Radio Television contain many editorial state-News Directors Association and ments. eight operators of radio and television stations.

FCC rules require every staqualities' of any individual or It noted requests for group, furnish a tape, script or sharply as this year's political summary of the attack and of-campaigns get underway.

The same applies when a sta-An appeal to the high court tion broadcasts an editorial fa-

The appeal said certain pro-

It maintained that allowing replies to each such statement would prove impossible.

The net effect of the so-called tion that broadcasts a statement attacking the "honesty, charactions to eliminate such force stations to eliminate such ter, integrity or like personal statements altogether, said the group to notify the individual or time would be likely to increase