Dear Bud,

Before you get this Jim should have gotten a copy of Sarah Pattee's story in the Dallas Times-Herald of 11/22. Thanks. Irrascible is perhaps a bit modest, albeit not always without inspiration!

As usual, Lifton is a liar. I've made copies for him, even of pictures and at some trouble. The actuality is that Lil put her foot down and, as I told Lifton, who usually finds himself uncomfortable with truth, it is she who said nothing at all about his access to my files but that she would not permit him in the house.

I've had almost no reaction from Dallas. L.A. Jones sent me the clipping, with complaint about the picture. They selected that one from more than 100 that their photographer took, three full reels of 35 mm.

L.A. had nothing else to say.

AP out of Baltimore also did a story for use 11/22. I've sent Jim the copy from the local paper, which was less chopped up than appeared in the Wilmington Sunday paper and the evening Balt, Sun of the 24th. Somewhat confused and wrong but not bad.

The holes in the slippers are to accommodate the toes, twisted by oxygen starvation during the first of the several emergencies. I still can't wear shoes without discomfort and some problems. I made the holes in old deck shoes, what I have that is least uncomfortable. I can't wear the new ones I've bought.

We are both OK. Both out of some respiratory problems that lasted longer with Lil and were more uncomfortable for her.

If I've promised to send you anything I've not sent, please let me know. I did forget the stuff about the phoney book for a while but you should have it.

Our best to you all,
