

Dad, via Jim,

3/21/81

Although I told Jim that I'd not go over the records of which I made copies for the Spectro case until we were at the point of need, because my leg is giving me more trouble I decided that I'd start making a file from which we can retrieve.

One of the first things I came upon is a copy of a letter I wrote you shortly after the reveal, last July. I also wrote you recently, suggesting that I think we have real possibilities and trying to learn if you have any interests.

I'd like to know, so I can think and perhaps plan.

You lawyers accept false swearing and other lies and accept them by officials. I don't and I persist in the belief that at some point some judge will rebel. Unlikely as it may appear, I believe it is not impossible that Pratt may be this judge because their lies and his own gung ho! have made him look bad.

We'll be proving that the agents lied on deposition and either lied to department counsel and department counsel were not truthful. I've just come on two such records. One states what Spectro can do other than as the SAs testified and the other reflects a search for Lab material for HSCA and they've just told us under discovery that there are no such records.

There will be much more of this. I'm just beginning. The packed stack is 8" thick.

There is no doubt that the FBI made tests pertaining to other shoeing and has not disclosed this to me or to the judge, and I don't think Pratt will give them Brownie points for it. I've asked Jim to inform counsel that I have proof of tests the results of which were not provided, so they'll have another chance to lie now or prove they did in the past. Withholding this kind of information is, I think, serious and can be used effectively. After all, it was the assassination of a President. And this is the second instance I have in this suit of alteration of evidence by unknown persons. The other was the unquestionable patching of the curbstones.

We'll be <sup>deposing</sup> ~~composing~~ Kilty at least and he was involved in the search for HSCA.

As time passes the newer agents forget the lies of the past and let things out. I just got some pictures of some of the fragment specimens and they appear to show more fragments than were accounted for to the Commission or the committees.

I think that at the least we can do what others have not yet done in tearing the official story down and I think it is the only possible beginning for the kind of thing you and others are looking for. When the time comes, perhaps before any hearing, I may want to get some attention for this.

Anyway, how about letting me know if you have any interest.

Best wishes,
