Dear Mary,

I've just heard from Zaid. I'm so glad you authorized him to try to do what he can. With the great work Peggy has already done some things will happen. I warned Waybright repeatedly, as recently as the last time I heard from him. And Harry didn't give a damn when I told him.

The real reason I'm writing it to let you know that I've a letter written to Rookstool, waiting only the copy of that letter you just sent Peggy to go with mine.

Harry had Rookstool and the FBI involved in his work in what he wrote and told me, that they are helping him, that he got his leads from them and others he did not name but he did include Rothermel. Or, against you and me, etc. I think the FBI won't like it.

He also told me he had Dallas police and a retired or former judge working for him.

Maybe Gary of someone else can do some checking for you. How about Judy Bonner?

I hope you can ease off now and not feel as tense. And by the way, how dependable is your information that Carroll & Graf is to do his book? They've made much on the other two that from my mail are still selling well.

I've just taken Zaid off of one distraction, his return to the assassination. Be alert to that, please, and don't let him go trying the irrelevant case.

Frankly, I do not think there is much chance that anything like the chapter on you he more or less described could be published anyway.

I do not think you'll get any more from him but please if you do let us know promptly. If I'd had had the letter to you that Peggy is sending me I'd have written Rookstool immediately. If he has been helping Harry in any way they have a problem with what Harry has done and if not Harry has a problem from laying about it.

My new stationery is what I've just written a long book on plus the xeroxes to protect loss in the mail. I don't know how many trees or drops of oil I've saved but it is that much. I've probably used several thousand sheets clean one side and have two stationery boxes full plus the stack on my desk!

It is so good that Peggy did what she has done! because at some point all this ex nonsense is going to collapse around Harry's head and it will be better if he knows before that happens (he does not, of course, expect it to happen) that he can't get away with his irrational assaults based only on inventions of his own or fed to him.

We hope you are both as well as you can be! love,
