An Ex-Agent for the F.B.I. Criticizes Its Lead

guage class at the Defense Lan-

Institute in Monterey,

Mont., which he said was a He cited the Lee Harvey Ospurgatory for agents who had wald case in which, he said, the failen from Mr. Hoover's grace. F.B.I. refused publicly to accept Rather than accept the transfer, any criticism for not watching Mr. Shaw submitted his resigna-Oswald more closely before the sent back a telegram saying that "your resignation is ac-cepted with prejudice," Mr. Shaw said. He added, that this has made it impossible for him of control and discipline blunted to obtain another job in law personal initiative and aggresenforcement.

Mr. Shaw, in an interview, indicated he was planning legal action to force the F.B.I. to re-move the "with prejudice" statement from his resignation.

In his letter to his professor, Dr. Abraham S. Blumberg, Mr. Shaw argued that he basically felt the F.B.I. was an "effective law enforcement agency" and that, despite a "cult of personality," Mr. Hoover was a man of integrity.

of integrity.

But he also discussed some of the things that he perceived as shortcoming during his seven years as an agent.

"It certainly is no military secret, though I am sure, not widely published either, that adulation of the director in some form or other provides mated problem."
the main catalyst in the proc"At the same time, the iness of 'administrative advance-ment,' " he wrote.

By DAVID BURNHAM

A former agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation—once selected for one of the fureau's more prestigious positions—has criticized the way the F.B.I. selects its leaders, disciplines its men and makes its investigations.

His comments on the internal working of the F.B.I. are among the most criticial assessments ever known to be made of the Bureau by an experienced agent. He said bureau reaction to the comments led to his a branch of City University.

Separation from the agency. The criticism of the F.B.I. in preparation for his school at the expense of the expense of the school at the expense of the school at the expense of the expense of the school at the expense of the school at the expense of the expense of the school at the expense of the expense of the school at the expense of the expense of the expense of the expense of the school at the expense of th ington refused to comment on the bureau was "swift and Mr. Shaw's analysis of bureau harsh," adding: "Unfortunately, operations, his other comments too, it is often quite arbitrary. or the resignation of the 15 Punishment is usually meted out agents from the college. in direct proportion to the Mr. Shaw, whose wife is seri-amount of bad publicity genously ill, was ordered to report erated by the particular mistake to the F.B.I. office in Butte, or incident."

on.

But. Mr. Hoover immediately nedy but later "censured, susent back a telegram saying pended and transferred the spenat "your resignation is accial agent to whom the Oswald case had been assigned." He said the bureau's system

sive action and tended to make the F.B.I. take an extremely conservative approach to its own responsibilities.

The bureau tends to seek new "successes" and to con-centrate manpower on areas such as stolen car cases, petty thefts and bank robberies, he said, "because these types of crime have produced high statistical success in the past."

He said the bureau had Ignored the criminal underworld's invasion of legitimate business and its efficient and expert operation. "The bureau," continued, "was slow to coop-erate with the organization of coordinated Federal Strike Forces, which are at least a novel approach to an old stale-ternal power structure of the F.B.I. has been too rigidly set Mr. Shaw then said that, be- in its own ways to conceive fore being promoted, agents or implement a novel program were given a brief interview of action involving cooperation with Mr. Hoover during which with outside agencies. Profesdirector made his own sional jealousy is not an un-

ers and Investigations

common F.B.I. shortcoming," ished second in a Russian-lan-

Mr. Shaw said another basic guage problem of the F.B.I. was that it was almost obsessively conerned with publicity.

"I believe it is possible for in organization to become so conscious of its public image ts unsullied reputation—that it is actually reduced in its effectiveness," he said. "I suggest that if avoidance of criticism becomes the chief consideration of an agency, there is little likelihood that its members will be distinguished for their imagination, initiative and agressive action." While arguing there was a need for effective public rela-tions, Mr. Shaw said the F.B.I.'s program was aimed at past exploits rather than at current needs and current accomplish-

"We are not simply rooted in tradition," he said. "We're stuck in it up to our eye-balls. And it all revolves around one key figure, viz., the life and exploits of J. Edgar Hoover."

Mr. Shaw is a former Marine Corps captain. In 1966 he fin-