

Rt. 12, Frederick, Md. 21701

4/7/76

Dear Mr. Fortas,

When we met, for the first time in 25 years, at the memorial services for Cliff Durr, I was to have phoned you to see if you would be free after I put the book on which I was then working on the press.

At that time I was hospitalized with what turned out to be a heavy case of phlebitis. Since then I have not been up to driving to Washington, although I can travel with little difficulty. I also have not known in advance when I would be there.

Now I do and I hope it can coincide with when you may be free.

I am to do a TV show at 9 a.m. Thursday the 22d. They tell me it will be over at 10. The next bus back is at 2:15.

This means that if you are free any time from about 10:30 until about 1:30 I can make it.

And want to.

In addition to what we spoke about, what I have learned about what happened to you when you were on the Supreme Court, I think you may be interested in what I was part of that resulted from your Harris v. Nelson decision.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
