Dear Miss Malek,

Pursuant to your letter of the 7th, here is the draft of a review/commentary on Gerold Frank, his book and the literary marketplace. In accord with your request, it begins with an encapsulation of the crime of violence that in some ways is less sinister than the subsequent crimes.

If you find it too long, cut it. If you would prefer to eliminate some of the commentary, I think you will find this easy to do.

I hope it meets your desires.

Thanks for the check.

When I was out there a year ago I met some of your staff. Please give them my regards and ask them to remember me to the others I met.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
