The Thing that impresses me mort about Kennedy assassination is the immence of amount of new maderial that can be turned up both photo-Jeophie and otherwise. It wildle me mightly to see that Manche the after two years of useauch on his books, and turnsup with nothing new. He is mainly conserved with making stretting on it. and not with preserving history. Your clippings are very helpful. They are now and they will be in the future. I am writing now to tell you this and to thank you because, although already overcommitted, as time goes on I'll have exen less time for letters.

As you realize, I must spend some time travelling. When I do I do not have access to the New York papers. When I am home I frequently do not simply because they are not available in the country.

Even if the clippings you are sending duplicate, they still serve a useful purpose, as I this morning discovered. I can cut them up and save appreciable typing.

There are indications all my files will wind up in an archive in a university. Therefore, these clippings may serve an additional historical purpose in the future, saving scholars the great time of combing newspaper files on this subject.

The clippings on the Manchester book are perticularly valuable. I am writing on it, probably a book. His work is conspicuously inaccurate as it relates that to the assessination, in itself a great tragedy, and undependable where he bluices around in slush. This is so awfully much the case most people will not be willing to believe it because of his auspicies and connections.

So, because I may not in the immediate future be able to take the time to inneach case write and thank you, I do not went you to misconstrue my silence. You are very helpful, and I do, very much, appreciate it.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Weisberg
