

Dear Dick,

3/30/93

Richard Waybright's letter in today's mail pretty much speaks for itself. In the light of his saying that might write C & G this may or many not hold what is new to you.

While I have no way of knowing, other than as Harry has disclosed it to me, what he thinks he has on me that is appropriate to the book he described in some detail, I do know that it could not have originated with Mark Crouch. We have never met, have had only slight contact over the past three years or so, and he has not indicated any interest in me that this reflects. What Harry sent me that he thinks is <sup>my</sup> something on me and isn't originated in Dallas and I can come pretty close to pinpointing his source.

Waybright's 2) has had some farcical results. The Baltimore police were close to flooded with all sorts of silly letters and phone calls from an assortment of assassination nuts/offering or sending assassination "information" which simply put isn't. They've been forced to write many letters saying there is nothing at all to what Harry told so very many. Harry's understanding and judgement are reflected by his persistence in alleged that there is a Maryland jurisdiction. There never was. Bethesda hospital is federal not state. Which Baltimore isn't in any event.

Waybright did not include the letter he refers to in his 3). He sent me the letter covering it. His last sentence explains that.

Livingstone's last two harrasments of Mary Ferrell of which I know were to write her that when the plane on which she had planned to go to a Chicago gathering landed the state police would be there to arrest her and his appearance at her home, unaccounted, with a bouquet of long-stemmed roses. She and her husband, who is so feeble he cannot get up if he falls, felt they had to admit and talk to Livingstone. <sup>She</sup> ~~Den~~ is my source.

I do not know who Waybright's source(s) are. I have not been in touch with him.

I think I know all I need to know about Livingstone's.

I'm not responding to this letter.

It is not unlikely <sup>at</sup> that I'll know <sup>more</sup> before long.

Best,

Harold
