Dear Dick,

If I understand the relevant part of the Groden suit, he alleges that Livingstone stole or made unauthorized use of "his" enhancements of the autopsy film.

I have been told by one to whom Groden told it that he stole the House committee's enhancements, rather made copies of them. He told this to more than one person. At least one, my source, remains his friend. So I am not saying that my source would be a witness for C & G or give them an affidavit but I think that without too much trouble, if this can be used to get the suit dropped, ~~yes~~^{they} can come close.

I should say that I believe if the suit proceeds depositing Groden would end it.

My source told me that Robert Blakey, House committee general counsel, either knows that Groden made those copies or believes it.

Blakey is now a law professor at Notre Dame. Not one of my favorite people and he feels the same way about me. Groden told a number in Dallas that ~~it~~^{he} stole the enhancements.

I understand, no personal knowledge, that Berkley is having problems because of the unauthorized use of the photos of others that Groden said he had the right to ~~use~~ use.

If I learn more I'll let you know.

Best,
