

Dear Dick,

3/5/93

Don't take the time to answer the questions I'd asked you about Livingstone and C & G. Livingstone has seen to it that unless he's died they are answered. I had a call today from a friend of Graf's who had also been close to Livingstone and even he can put up with it no more. Livingstone asked him to join in celebrating the contract.

I'll have no more to say about this unless I think it is something you do not know and really should. Except for those existing areas where you all should know all you need to know. This includes who there is reason to believe and why there is always reason to question.

There is an ongoing internal Baltimore police investigation I had nothing to do with starting. I am among many, as it turns out, who kept warning Waybright what was going to happen. As it turns out the police knew, before receiving the complaint (about which I learned when the internal-investigation section phoned me), that either of two had been making improper use of the police computer and its system. It may well be both of the cops who have been in Harry's pay. It certainly did include Waybright-before any complaint.

I have been told by one familiar with that computer system and its capabilities that the police will have no real difficulty learning exactly what confidential police information was taken and by whom.

I have been told by a friend whose source I believe is probably a retired FBI agent who is a lawyer that there is possible violation of provisions of Title 18 of the US Code and in Maryland of a provision of Article 27. Obviously, I have not consulted a lawyer and now have no such plans or intentions.

But I do intend to take this up with the local police when I've time.

The complaint was triggered by a friend of Mary Ferrell's who was outraged by what Harry did and ^{was} doing.

As I may have told you I would I did send a couple of the letters along with one I wrote him to the FBI agents Harry says has been helping him. The word selection is not mine. As I told Harry, help they would not give him. Nor is that what he got from HL Hunt's former chief of security. I told that FBI agent that the letters reflect what he and the FBI are now involved in, my opinion. I also took a couple of the letters to the post office for the postal inspector.

I hope that as you once indicated you can avoid any involvement. I think that in the end you'll feel better if you can.

Best to you all,

Harold
