

Dear Dick,

3/5/92

In the time I've not been packaging books, getting and cutting up cardboard with which to back them and for the larger orders, boxes in which to ship them; responding to media calls, now slacked off; answering letters also a bit fewer now; and the other things that take time I've been copying what I may want to use in "~~The~~ Honorable Lien."

If I did not tell you, as I see the book it accepts arlen Spefter's challenge that they be judged by their work, those counsels, by the Report and what he referred to as the published 25 volumes, of which there are 26. Doing this justifies going into what those counsels knew about and did not go into. It also justifies going into what was available to them after their Commission service relating to it. Here I am restricting myself to what is published. I've quite a few pages from Whitewash and this morning I returned to Oswald in New Orleans, which I've not looked at in years. I was looking for where I wrote that a former Marines mate told me that Oswald had "Crypto" security clearance. Which has been widely if not entirely ignored by others.

As I read that intending to highlight what I wanted to copy, once I got into it I did no highlighting. I just read.

It is good! and after more than two decades it still stacks—and much more!

I suggest that you read "Creatures of the CIA," beginning on page 71.

Realizing as you do that I have absolutely solid proof that Oswald really did have that exceptionally high clearance. That it is missing from all disclosed Oswald records. And that what I have is as official as anything can be, copies of official records not filed under Oswald by the Navy.

Add to that what I have relating to the defected KGB official Yuri Hosenko, that the KGB suspected that Oswald was an agent in place, a "sleeper," and that he was only anti-Soviet in the USSR.

And more.

It is not exciting?

I'm still waiting to hear from Posner, who I think is in Dallas. I've written him so he'll have the letter when he gets back to NY.

What a book this can be!

If you do not have a copy of the book and would like to read that chapter, I'll send you a xerox of it.

Best,

Harold
