Wait-and-See Air Envelops Garrison Probe

Mystery continued to shroud Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's probe of the death of President John F. Kennedy today as public developments ground to a halt over the weekend.

Garrison's investigators worked overtime in their offices in the Criminal Courts Building yesterday, but the DA himself did not show up. No results were announced.

One aide confirmed that the assistants were working on the Kennedy assassination probe, but no one was seen entering or leaving for possible interrogation.

GARRISON MAINTAINS that a New Orleans-based plot was responsible for the death of Kennedy, shot down in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. He has promised arrests and convictions.

So far, he has made one arrest: Clay L. Shaw, former managing director of the International Trade Mart, was arrested Wednesday and booked with criminal conspiracy. He denies any connection with any plot, and is free on $10,000 bond.

Yesterday in Fort Worth, Tex., former Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr said he has personal knowledge that federal investigators checked out persons named so far by Garrison in his probe and cleared them of any connection with the assassination.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's way out on a limb," Carr told the annual meeting of the Texas Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Here is Carr's comment:

"Due to my complete confidence in the report of the Warren Commission, he is going to have to show me . . . The burden of proof is on him . . . It would have to stand up under lie-detector tests and such proof.

"I, like the rest of America, am standing by to see if he can produce something.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's way out on a limb."
