

Dear Gerry,

7/8/93

Thanks for your 7/5 and the fine letter enclosed. It may take some time but it should do the job.

I was under the impression that Dennis said he wants to come. Dave said he was emphatic. But if he doesn't want to, fine. No big deal and I don't want any one to feel obligated or not do what they should because of the time coming, going and here. However, Dennis is on the list at Ford.

Jerry says he invited you to stay with them. Thus what I said about the Red Horse may be irrelevant. But if anyone wants to stay there, he'd better make his reservation. A teacher who was coming from LeCrosse delayed until two days ago for a room tonight and they were fully booked. For the convocation they'll have more demand for rooms.

My friend my not copublish with C & G. He is and has been away and the long silence is from that and from the editor being away for quite a while on jury duty. I've heard from him. Ify target for the book is November. I've urged that it not be offered to C & G but to another of the publishers of about that size with whom my friend, a publishing lawyer, is connected. He won't be back for a week and he'll be busy then.

I'm glad you are into Virginia's book. Wonderful a gal, now 90. If I did not tell you, I got two others and can't remember for whom.

In a rush, our best to you all,

Hardy

Dear Harold,

July 5, 1993

Enclosed is a copy of the letter I sent to Carroll & Graf about obtaining a complimentary copy of Killing the "Truth". I would hope to get some response before I come up in August. I wonder how they will handle Livingston's book, in light of Never Again? I have read most of the rough chapters you sent back with me in April. Even as rough drafts, I believe your writing, presentation of facts, logic are all very clear, clearer than I found many sections of Post Mortem to be (at least on the first reading).

I have not spoken with Dennis again, but I believe I will be able to entice him to come down. The Red Horse Inn would be my first choice for places to stay. I will make reservations once I know Dennis's plans.

Just the past few days I started reading Outside the Magic Circle. I am intrigued by Studs Terkel's forward, especially when he describes her appearance before the Eastland Committee. We could use people of that character today. Someone who appears to come close in some respects is James Walsh, the Iran-Contra special prosecutor. There was a long, fairly complimentary write-up of his life, his true blue Republican credentials, and his courageous insistence on the truth in the face of Republican stonewalling. I am looking forward to his final report. The article on him appeared in this past Sunday's (July 4th) NY Times.

Take care. I will send whatever I get from Carroll & Graf along when it comes in.

Best,

To whom it may concern:

I am an Associate Professor of Sociology who has had a longstanding interest in the JFK assassination literature dating back to the late 60's when I was a college student. Since taking a position at Wofford in 1980 I have taught several courses on the assassination, mainly during our Interim period in January. This coming January I am doing one on the assassination of Malcolm X and will be using two books published by Carroll & Graf (Malcolm X: The FBI File and Malcolm X: The Assassination by Michael Friedly). Our bookstore will be ordering those books in Nov. '93. But getting back to JFK, I am thinking of doing a course next summer or in Jan. '94, featuring some of the new books coming out in anticipation of the 30th anniversary this Nov.. I am particularly interested in the work of Harrison Livingston and I understand you will be publishing a book by him entitled Killing the Truth. I would appreciate your sending me any promotional literature on it and/or a complimentary copy. (I will be willing to pay for the book if you do not give out complimentary copies, but at this point I am mainly interested in sizing it up because I will also be considering some other titles). Your prompt attention to this matter would be greatly appreciated since summer is usually the time I can read more and prepare for future courses.

Sincerely,

Dr. Gerald Ginocchio
